Washington—The success which has attended the government's refunding policy in the last fortnight and the forecast that a billion dollars will be cut from the public debt this year may vitaly affect the size of the next tax reduction.Until the dramatic example was given of how a surplus may cut indebtedness and indirectly reduce interest charges for the future, the tendency in Washington was to regard the surplus as logical prey for the advocates of tax reduction. Politics prevented a rebate or credit being given at the last congress on the surplus that had accumulated, so the alternative was application of the same funds to debt retirement.The treasury has all along been favorable to this idea of using the surplus but has yielded to the clamor for tax reduction. Having succeeded beyond its own expectations in driving home
the idea of debt retirement because it strengthens all government securities and enables the government to borrow at lower rates of interest, the treasury will naturally assume a defensive position toward those in congress who would make a drastic cut in income taxes next year.The sinking fund requirement is that only $250,000,000 annually be applied to debt retirement but when the treasury has been able to cut the public debt by four times that sum,
the sinking fund requirement as a means of preventing too much of a tax cut.

PROBLEM IS COMPLICATED

The problem is complicated by the fact that 1928 is a presidential campaign year and members of congress who are up for re-election will wish to appear before the electorate in the most favorable light. In order to gain the maximum number of votes, a tax reduction on the smaller incomes will be an inevitable method or approach. The principle involved, however, is whether the exempted classes shall be increased so that ultimately on persons of $5,000 a year incomes or over will be paying Uncle Sam's expenses. It is argued that this would be subject to criticism on the ground of unfairness to the smaller group and that it would foster the impression that the people of wealth by paying most of the taxes will occupy a superior status in America. The distribution of some taxes among the persons of smaller incomes has been defended in congress as one means of retaining an active interest on the part of the citizen in government expenditures and as a sure check against extravagance.

NEW CUT POSSIBLE

Congress has already been confronted with the possibility of a cut of a half billion in taxes, yet if the present tax rates should continue as productive as they are now, the next avenue bill will be based on the idea that a cut of at least $400,000,000 would be safe. Secretary Mellon is making no predictions, for he wants to see how business conditions look in December
next, before hazarding a prediction
as to the probable total revenues to be received.The next tax law will be based on incomes earned during the calendar year 1927 and payable next March.COOK REMAINS IN PRISON PENDING TEST OF CASEWashington—(AP)—Dr. Frederick A.
Cook will be kept in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth until a test has been made of the right of a federal judge to release a prisoner on probation after a sentence has begun.
The department of justice said Saturday.The former explorer and oil operator sentenced to 14 years for using the mails to defraud, had been ordered released, but the department announced Saturday that it had received assurances from Federal Judge Wilson, at Fort Worth, who issued the order several days ago for Cook's release, that he would cooperate to test
his interpretation of the probation law through an appeal to the circuit court of appeals.SPEEDER ADMITS GUILT

Carter, Green Bay, marked the close of the first trial resulting from the Brown-co cleanup investigation here last January by Samuel LaViolette, local attorney who retained the services of two private detectives in securing evidence against more than four score alleged law violators.The jury in the Carter case deliberated five hours and returned the verdict of not guilty at 8:30 Friday night. The case was given to the jury at 2:30 Friday afternoon, following arguments of M. E. Davis of defense counsel, and Special Prosecutor Max
H. Strehlow for the state.District Attorney Raymond E. Everard announced Friday night that a jury would be drawn Saturday.
The verdict of Mr. Davis was a warning to those behind the cleanup.
"No good will come of the present campaign; only hatred and bitter feeling," Mr. Strehlow attacked the campaign of defense counsel, who, he told the jury, violated every rule of practice just to prejudice you."Testimony of Jasinski, star state witness, during the trial was similar to that of the arraignment of 39 defendants. When in the place where liquor was reported to be sold, he and his companion would order a "round" of drinks the first of which Jasinski would swallow. The second drink he would hold in his mouth until alone and then empty it into a bottle, he said.$100,000 FIRE ROUTS

the Fred Lang garage here Friday night destroyed five frame buildings, damaged another and sent 15 persons,
some of them scantily clad, into the street. The loss was more than $100, 000.All of the buildings were in the same block and the flames spread rapidly from the garage, fanned by a brisk wind. The fire also spread to a pool hall before it was brought under control through the aid of the fire department from Hayward.CLEVELAND WANTS NEXT

Two White GirlsCoffeyville, Kas.—(AP)—National guard sentries, scores of broken windows and a damaged city hall Saturday was the only remaining evidence of the race riot here Friday night in which three persons were injured when a mob of more than 1,500 persons attempted to remove a Negro from the local jail.Infuriated by reports of the attack on two white girls Friday afternoon, groups of men followed officers about
the city in search for the Negroes.
Bloodhounds soon took up a trail that led to a frame house. A large crowd surrounded the building, which officers announced was vacant in an effort to disperse the mob.The ruse failed and after reinforcements arrived, the officers escorted three Negroes from the house. By moving slowly through the crowd
they took the prisoners to the city jail without incident.Women and children joined the crowd at the jail where youths encouraged by older persons started stoning it. Police and sheriff's deputies were posted at all entrances and spokesmen for the authorities attempted to persuade the crowd to disperse.INVADE NEGRO SECTION
When leaders of the mob were informed the Negroes were not in the jail groups left the throng to invade the Negro quarter where upwards of 4,000 colored persons live. Several fir-sights occurred between whites and blacks and sporadic firing began.William Waddle, 17, printer's apprentice, was struck in the legs by a charge of buckshot and received a pistol bullet through an arm. The shots were fired by Negroes, who came to the rescue of one of their race who had been severely beaten.C. Walton, 45, foundry foreman, was injured in the rush to safety as firing increased.As Waddle hurried through the streets to his office, many saw the blood from his wounds and the men rushed to handkerchiefs to obtain blood and ammunition. When they found the doors locked they broke into the stores and obtained shotguns and ammunition.

NATIONAL GUARD APPEARS

Troop B, local national guard cavalry, appeared during the firing.
The forty odd men of the troop scattered through the streets wearing steel helmets and full war equipment. The sight of the soldiers had a quieting effect on many of the mob but others feared. Many windows were shattered by stray bullets.Soldiers then mounted guard over hardware stores and the whites deserted the Negro quarter to return to the jail. A fire hose, strung through the city hall to aid in repulsing attacks on the jail, was cut and carried away.Officers told the mob two of the Negroes had been exonerated and released, while the third, Curtis Smith, 33, had been removed from jail on the fire truck which brought home.Youths led by men then rushed for filling stations to obtain gasoline to set fire to the jail. The stations had been closed and they returned empty-handed. An American flag was then displayed from a city hall window.The mob jeered. Messages from state officials imploring the people to avoid bloodshed, met with similar response.
Fifty 1,500 persons had assembled at dusk when men started increased firing from a drizzle to sufficient volume to cause many to leave the jail.COOL WEATHER SAVES BADGER FRUIT CROPMadison—(AP)—Cool weather Saturday probably saved Wisconsin fruit crops from a million dollar damage.
J. C. Moore, horticulturist at the University of Wisconsin, said Saturday.
If the warm weather of recent days
had continued much longer, he said, there would have been imminent danger of virtual destruction of the entire fruit crop.Requests from farmers over the state, apprehensive because of the early development of buds, prompted the statement from the agricultural school at the university. A continuation of the cool weather for several days, Professor Moore stated, will be of inestimable value to the fruit growers.BOARD CONSIDERS TWO

GREETING TO SPRINGThough spring will be officially ushered in at 9:59 Monday morning, the colder weather of Saturday evening, should convince Appleton residents that there still may be a few more days of "winter" left. Many who were contemplating doffing the heavies after the warm sunshine of Friday,
which sent the mercury to above
50 degrees, changed their minds Saturday when the fluid fell to below 40 early in the morning.
Golfers who were especially jubilitant over the fine weather have been advised by official forecasters to wear their heavies under their pink flannels.People who live near the City park are firm in their conviction that spring is here. Benches in the city park have been painted and are "ready for use", which, they argue, is the surest sign of spring.FORMER BADGER IS

PRISONER ESCAPEFort Leavenworth Official Claims Convict Promised to Share LootNew Orleans, La.—(AP)—Charles M.
Thompson, former assistant superintendent of the Fort Leavenworth Kas., penitentiary shoe factory was in custody Saturday, awaiting return to that institution on charges that he aided in the escape of John P. Carroll, a prisoner. Police were of the belief that Thompson was captured
Friday, while waiting to meet Carroll.
Thompson before going to Kansas was assistant superintendent of the state penitentiary at Waupun, Wis.Department of justice agents who arrested Thompson refused to comment on a rumor that he and Carroll had planned a sensational jailbreak. Thompson said he had been proposed to carry out when they met.
The agents trailed Carroll and Thompson to New Orleans from Louisville, Ky.Thompson said that he enabled Carroll to escape from the penitentiary by selling him up to the shoe cantainer which was sent from the prison to Thompson's
rooms in Leavenworth. Carroll,
he said, had promised him a split of $68,000 which the prisoner claimed
was hidden in under a barn near Memphis, Tenn. A search of the place
failed to disclose the money. Thompson denied the charge. He said that he had the utmost faith that Carroll was truthful
when he said that the money had been hidden there.PRAIRIE FIRE SWEEPS TOWARD LUMBER YARDSRockford, Ill.—(AP)—At 2:30 Saturday morning the additional calls were sent to the Rockford fire department by calling him up to the shoe can-
tainer which was sent from the prison to Thompson's
rooms in Leavenworth. Carroll,
he said, had promised him a split of $68,000 which the prisoner claimed
was hidden in under a barn near Memphis, Tenn. A search of the place
failed to disclose the money. Thompson
denied the charge. He said that he had the utmost faith that Carroll was truthful
when he said that the money had been hidden there.The fire swept toward the lumber yards and buildings of the Camp Grant Wrecking company in danger from prairie fires. Another company was sent to the scene. The prairie fire, which has raged since early Friday evening, was sweeping toward the lumber piles. The lumber is mostly from cantonment buildings torn down by the company, which reclaimed the lumber.RIVER FALLS STUDENT

Near Death In DetroitDetroit—(AP)—A clubber and his 11-year-old victim were at the point of death in local hospital Saturday
while police checked up on the former, in an effort to ascertain if he is the terrorist who has been operating a number of Michigan and Ohio cities principally Toledo.Edward Ballard, Fordson, Mich., ex-convict, was shot Friday night by a policeman as he was being man-cled by a taxi driver.Ballard according to reports to police, leaped on the boy as he passed an ally, enroute home, and battered him with a snuffed-off baseball bat until interrupted by approach of a passenger. The boy's leg was broken by a blow from the club and he was severely injured. Recovery is not expected.The passerby summoned police, who immediately checked the neighborhood.
They came upon Ballard a few minutes later crouched behind a telephone pole and shot him. A search of Ballard's clothing revealed, in addition to the bat, a pistol, a short iron bar, three coils of rope and a number of cartridges. The man was later identified as a former inmate of the Michigan State prison at Jackson, where he served a term for criminal assault.A notebook found in Ballard's clothing contained addresses of a number of Detroit children and their ages.CANTON ARMY

Progress Around Shanghai and NankingShanghai, China—(AP)—The left wing of the Shantungese army, defending Shanghai on the Sunkiang front, has crumpled, and the northern troops are hurriedly retreating toward this city. The way is apparently open for the Cantonese to gain Shanghai.The Cantonese war machine is closing its pincers about both Shanghai and Nanking, overnight dispatches indicated. Nanking, on the Yangtze river, is being approached both from west and south, while a similar encircling movement is in progress against Shanghai, with Cantonese troops threatening from the southwest at the same time attempting to cut the railway between the two cities, northeast of Taihu lake.One report, through London, is that the drive from the southwest toward Shanghai has reached Sungkiang, 20 miles away, while an exodus of panic-stricken Chinese from Nanking lends weight to the Cantonese claim that they are ten miles from that city.Peking advises are that the general strike, set for noon Saturday in Shanghai, to continue "until the nationalists occupy the city," failed to materialize on schedule. The union advances military developments.

have been refused permission by officials of the staff of General Tsun Chang, commander of the Shan-tungese forces defending Shanghai, to interview Madame Borodin, wife of the Russian adviser of the Cantonese government.Madame Borodin was arrested recently by the Shantungese on board of "Other Woman"Chicago—(AP)—The woman paid in the case of Harry L. Sutton, alleged automobile thief, who was recaptured Friday after a short liberty obtained by forged bail bonds.

Sutton's young wife, according to the police, engineered his release from jail, only to learn a few hours later that in his freedom he preferred the company of another woman to hers.Sutton, who walked out of jail Thursday when his wife presented bonds totaling $37,500 which it later was found were the forged signature of Judge Max Luster, was arrested in a flat building Friday night when police detected a telephone call to his wife.
With Sutton was a man and two women.Mrs. Sutton told police before her husband's arrest she had paid $500 for the forged bonds, believing them good.
Sutton later said he, too, believed the bonds good, but admitted he planned to jump the bail. The bonds were obtained, Mrs. Sutton said, from three men whose names she gave and who are being sought.THREE RACINE MEN ARE

SHEBOYGAN SALOONVictim Resists Search by Robbers—One Gunman Believed Hit by BulletSheboygan—(AP)—Two gunmen about 25 years old, believed to be from Chicago shot and killed a man
in holdup of a saloon here at 12:30
Saturday morning and made their escape. They are believed to have passed through Milwaukee, on the return.The dead man was Ole Jonsson, 28, of Sheboygan. One of the bandits is believed to have shot the wounded accidentally by the pocket in an exchange of 20 shots. The two rifled
the cash register of about $200, jumped into a coupe and headed south on Highway 17 at a high rate of speed.There were six customers in the saloon which was run by Otto Kohl.
When the bandits entered, one by the back door, and the other through the front, they lined the seven men up in front of the bar and while one gunman kept them covered the other went to the cash register.They then started a systematic search of the pockets of patrons, but one of them came to Jonsson he made an attempt to grab the gun. Immediately the other opened fire and Jonsson fell shot four times in the body. The shooting became general and in the melee the bandits fled through the front door. One was seen to twitch as though hit by a bullet, as he ran.Sheboygan police started out on Highway 17 over the path gunmen were thought to have taken.A clew to the identity of the robbers was furnished by a telephone call to the police, who reported that two men answering the general description of the Sheboygan robbers and riding in a coupe had inquired the road to Chicago about 2 o'clock Saturday morning.LITTLE DANGER OF HIGH WATER IN FOX VALLEYOshkosh—(AP)—There need be no anxiety about floods or high water in the Fox river valley at this time. Although H. Tripp, president for the Association for the Relief of High Water, declared Saturday following a survey of conditions. The Wolf river from which source high water is most likely to come, is receding, he said.Lake Winnebago is at a moderate stage with the sluice gates at Menasha partly open. Unless there is a change and the Wolf river begins to rise,
there is no cause for worry at this time, he declared.VARIABLE TEMPERATURE

Sixteen Bodies Recovered,
Twelve Reported Missing
Early SaturdayLittle Rock, Ark.—(AP)—Successive tornadoes left areas of suffering in southwest and central Arkansas, in one northwestern border county and in several towns beyond the Missouri state line. At least 28, and probably more, were dead.The latest and as yet not thoroughly checked disaster, occurred Friday night when a twister curved through Green Forest, Ark., like a homing pigeon from the north. Visitors leaving the isolated town Saturday had heard of 15 bodies found and of 50 to 75 injured. Fourteen of the dead were named.Neighboring settlements of Coin and Denver were reported destroyed with loss of life and near Marshfield, Mo., two persons were injured and buildings were damaged. In Howell and Oregon-co, Mo., there was destruction from hail and high winds.Another death occurred in Conway
when a man was struck by lightning,
as he sought safety in a cellar from a storm that did not materialize.Joplin, Mo.—(AP)—More than a score of persons were killed and at least fifty injured, many severely, by tornadoes and high winds which swept southwestern Missouri and Northwestern Arkansas Friday night.Sixteen were known dead; twelve were reported missing, and thirty more injured at Green Forest, Ark., by a tornado which wrecked the business district and devastated nearby farms. Fire broke out following the tornado, destroying a cannery factory and several houses.Nine were reported killed at Denver, Ark., a village about 12 miles northeast of Green Forest, which is 100 miles south of here.Two persons were injured and buildings were damaged by a tornado near Marshfield, in Webster-co, Mo. Hail and high winds also damaged buildings and crops in Howell and Oregon-co.

REPORT HEAVY LOSSES

Reports indicated losses would run
heavy throughout the Green Forest district. Special trains were enroute to the area Saturday carrying doctors, nurses and supplies.The storm apparently centered at Green Forest, where upwards of 700 houses and stores were destroyed or badly damaged. Streets were filled with debris which hampered rescue crews.Two churches were converted into dressing stations and one later was designated as a morgue. Sixteen bodies had been recovered early Saturday.As the storm severed power lines,
as well as telegraph and telephon-wires, rescuers stumbled about with lanterns tracing the cries of injured or marking spots where people were believed pinned or buried by stone and timbers.

STATION DEMOLISHED

Persons arriving at Eureka Springs,
Ark., 25 miles northwest of Green
Forest, said the Missouri and North Arkansas railroad station, an elementary school house and a bank building were among structures virtually demolished. Hail and wind shattered windows in almost all business buildings, on the square and in practically every home. No effort was made to combat the fires.The entire population, that portion who escaped the storm's fury, was milling about the streets during early morning hours waiting for daylight to reveal the true picture of disaster.Women, some hysterical, some scantly clad, crying children clinging to them, roamed the streets. The men were doing their bit toward recovering bodies.Rich

SIXTH DISTRICT ADVERTISING MEN MEET NEXT WEEK

24 Speakers, Are Nationally Known, Are Scheduled to Give Addresses

Twenty-four speakers, some of them nationally known, have been scheduled for addresses at the annual convention of the sixth district of the International Advertising Association in Milwaukee March 23-24. The meeting is expected to attract between 500 and 1,000 advertising men from several states of the middle west.

Heading the list of speakers are United States Senator Arthur Capper, Kansas; President Glenn Frank of the University of Wisconsin; Governor Fred R. Zimmerman of Wisconsin; C. King Woodbridge, Detroit, president of the International Advertising Association; and W. Frank McClure, Chicago, chairman of the advertising commission.

Special trains are expected to take many delegates from Indianapolis, Chicago, and other cities in the district.

C. C. Younggreen, Milwaukee advertising man, chairman of the sixth district, heads a large Milwaukee committee making arrangements for the convention.

Other speakers scheduled are: Maxwell Droke, President, Advertising Club of Indianapolis; Horace S. Valle, McGraw-Hill company, New York; "Undiscovered Advertising," O. C. Harn, Managing Director, Audit Bureau of Circulation, Chicago; "Circulation Values in Advertising," Vinton M. Pace, Sales Manager, Gimbel Brothers, Milwaukee; "Retail Advertising," Rhey Snodgrass, Advertising Manager, Pioneer Press Dispatch, "Who Pays for Advertising," Arthur McDonald, Editorial Staff, Advertising System, "Hand to Mouth Buying," C. E. Willard, Prof. of Business Organization, Northwestern University, "Moulding the Merchandising Man of Tomorrow."

Buckley, Buckley Demont company, Chicago, President Chicago Advertising Council, "Problems of Direct Mail Advertising," and Ralph Starr Butler, Advertising Manager, Postum Products company, "Advertising and its Consumer Effect."

ASK CHAMBERS TO WORK FOR AMENDMENT TO LAW

Wisconsin Chambers of commerce have been asked to work for the passage of an amendment to permit the legislature to classify forests and minerals for taxation, in a letter issued this week by the Appleton organization. The amendment, if passed will promote reforestation in the state, Hugh G. Corbett, secretary of the chamber said.

All forest lands now are taxed the same whether they are poor forest producers or good and this hinders reforestation. The amendment, which will be voted on in the election on April 5, reads:

"Shall Section one I, Article 8, of the constitution be amended to permit the legislature to classify forests and minerals for taxation, inclusive or separately or severed from the land."

OSBORN PAYS ALL OF COUNTY, STATE TAXES

The first municipality in the county to make final settlement of county and state taxes with Miss Mario Ziegenhagen, county treasurer, is the town of Osborn. P. W. Eich, town treasurer, Thursday turned over $6,235.29 to Miss Ziegenhagen. All county and state tax must be paid by Tuesday, March 22, according to Miss Ziegenhagen.

Early Spring Indicated By Flight Of Wildfowl

BY E. A. CLAPLIN
The long, wavering lines of wildfowl that we are witnessing daily now as they head their way northward in their annual migration indicate an early spring. While wild ducks and geese, to a certain extent, are found along Lake Michigan very late in the fall, and early in the spring, the real migratory flight is easily recognized.

Their appearance now, even though it is considerably earlier than usual, may safely be taken as an assurance of an early break up. The wild things of nature are undoubtedly endowed with a sixth sense, for they make no mistakes. Once they start northward the migratory birds never turn back. By easy stages, correctly timed, they reach their breeding grounds, handily plumed in preparation for the great act of procreation.

The geese and swans breed as far north as the Arctic coast. Some of the smaller species, such as the Snow geese, breed more extensively in north-west British Columbia and Alaska. The Brant, however, breeds only within the Arctic circle. The common Canada goose builds his nest, sometimes in trees, from various parts of northern United States to Hudson's Bay.

Some of our wild ducks breed as far north as Alaska, the Pin-tail even penetrating the Arctic circle for this purpose, being found quite in common with the Black Brant. The Scaup, commonly known as the Blue-bill, together with the Widgeon, Red-head, Gadwall and Dusky duck breed extensively on the St. Clair flats and from there northward to Hudson's Bay.

Quite frequently we hear the remark that our wild ducks are as plentiful now as they ever were. That is manifestly not the case. In days gone by our lakes, rivers and open bodies of water would be literally carpeted with countless thousands of wild fowl.

They were shot by the thousands for the markets until the people awoke to the fact that their numbers were decreasing at an alarming rate. And then regulation forbade their killing during the breeding season. In Wisconsin, and some other states, in spite of this act on the part of these states, Illinois and other states south of us continued the slaughter for years.

I have personally seen thousands of ducks, principally Mallards, and other game birds displayed in the S. Water-st. Chicago, markets during the spring months. Many followed the shooting of wild game birds as a vocation. Finally the intervention of the Federal Migratory Bird act put a stop to this

TEACHERS COMPLETE FOUR DAY TRAINING INSTITUTE

Fourteen evening school teachers from Kaukauna, Neenah, Menasha and Appleton completed the four day course in home economics conducted at Appleton Vocational school from Monday to Thursday. Miss Margaret Johnson, state supervisor of vocational home economics and Miss Grace Price, state teacher trainer of the economics department conducted the school.

Six units were studied during the class meetings. They were: Analysis of evening school pupils' needs; organization of pupils on the basis of what they already know and can do; class management; advantages of short progressive units; effective methods of evening school training; testing for results of training.

MINNESOTA U. STUDENTS VISIT PAPERMILLS HERE

Two Appleton and Kimberly paper mills were visited by 18 senior students and two professors of the University of Minnesota. Minneapolis, Minn., Thursday as a part of the annual itinerant, of the chemical engineers' inspection trip made by the group. Dr. C. A. Mann and Dr. H. E. Montana accompanied the students.

The Kimberly-Clark Paper Co. mill at Kimberly was visited in the morning. The group had luncheon at the Conway hotel and then went to the Fox River Paper Co. plant. These were the first mills visited by the students in their 1927 tour.

Other cities to be visited are Milwaukee, Chicago, Whiting, Ind., Ottaw-

SEYMOUR MAN CLAIMS $30 BOUNTY ON WOLF

The first application this year for bounty on a wolf was made Thursday at the office of John E. Hantschel, county clerk. Winfred H. Schmidt, Seymour, filled out the application blank which was forwarded to Madison. He shot the wolf Thursday morning while hunting in the town of Osborn. The bounty is $30.

The purpose of the annual trips is to give the students a conception of chemistry and chemical engineering on a large scale and from a commercial point of view. They will return to Minneapolis on Saturday March 28.

LOAN ASSOCIATION IS AMONG STATE'S LARGEST

The Appleton Building and Loan association is the fifty-seventh largest organization of its kind in the state, according to George H. Beckley, secretary. There are 171 such associations in Wisconsin. In 1919, when the association was organized, only one other organization in the state made larger progress and that one was in Milwaukee. Assets of all state associations on Dec. 31, 1926, were $182,352,373.30, a gain of $21,195.23 over the preceding year, according to the annual report of Clyde P. Diggins, Madison, supervisor of Building and Loan associations. Mr. Beckley received a copy of the report Friday.

The Car for Business

There's double economy in buying a Ford for business. It costs little to buy and little to operate—that saves money. It is most flexible in traffic, and it can be parked wherever there is a thirteen foot space—that saves time.

The coupe has abundant stowage space for grips and sample cases where they are protected against weather and safe from tampering. And, when service is required the nearest service is always Ford service. Let us give you a demonstration—free of course. See the beautiful new colors—the new Pyroxylin finish standard on Fords.

SOCIETY

WANT FOURTH WARD
TO BE RESTRICTED
AS WOME DISTRICTPlanning Commission Prepares Ordinance Creating Residence Section

Neenah—An ordinance to create a residential district of practically the entire fourth ward south of Main-st. to the south city limits, as suggested by the city planning commission, was submitted to the Friday evening meeting of the city council. In order to acquaint the committee on ordinance and printing with the exact boundaries, the ordinance was left for committee investigation to report at next meeting.

Erection of the municipal bath house which was overturned and badly damaged a few weeks ago, was discussed. It was not thought advisable to replace the building in the same location. The council as a committee of the whole will spend Saturday afternoon in an effort to find a suitable place for the building.

Completion of Grant-st. was ordered at once to enable property owners there to get to their homes. All streets in the city were reviewed so that suitable report can be made as to conditions.

Bids will be received by the city for two carriages of road oil.

The M. Burstein company asked permission to place a fire escape on the rear of its building as ordered by the industrial commission. The frame work will extend over city property. It was referred to the board of public works.

A plan including new streets connecting with S. Commercial-st. was accepted in order that the city can pay its part of intersection costs when that street is improved during the coming summer.

An ordinance approved by the planning commission establishing a building line was accepted. The city assessors hereafter will be elected for a two year term instead of the one year term as has been the custom. An ordinance to this effect was adopted to take effect at the coming election in April.

George Kelly, city attorney, reported that a meeting for condemning Klondike, Chestnut and Groves-st. for road extension work, would be held on March 29 at which time the commission will have fixed the benefits and damages.

Catch basins were ordered replaced on Center, High-sts and E. Columbia-ave.

8,000 PERSONS USED
PLAYGROUNDS IN 1926

Neenah—A survey of athletics here last summer showed that over 8,000 people used the playgrounds. There were 30 baseball teams playing several afternoons a week; there were indoor baseball leagues with 20 teams, 14 teams and 10 teams, playing every night of the week with the exception of Saturdays and Sundays. Then there were girls' teams playing in the early evening and afternoon hours. There were the high school track teams, the grade school track meets and horsehoe contests; football games and athletic lessons conducted by Coaches Christoph and Jorgenson.

The committees in charge of the Kiwanis drive for funds for a new athletic field will start out Monday in an effort to raise $7,500 for the purpose of constructing a modern athletic field.

CITY TURNS $159,906
OVER TO COUNTY OFFICE

Neenah—A total of $159,906.40 in taxes was returned to the Winnebago county treasurer Friday afternoon by Lawrence Lambert, city treasurer, and H. J. Zemlock, city clerk. Of this amount the county's part of income and surtaxes was $64,314.73; balance on county taxes $55,222.70; delinquent taxes, amounted to $39,368.93.

The Neenah officers returned with a check of $9,562.50 as the city's share of the state school money.

ROTARY CLUB ELECTS
DIRECTORS FOR YEAR

Neenah—Dr. J. M. Donovan, H. P. Buck, D. E. Kimberly, S. P. Shattuck, H. C. Hilton, Dr. T. D. Smith and L. O. Schubert were elected directors of the Rotary club at the meeting Thursday noon at the Valley Inn. Election followed a talk by T. H. Ryan of Appleton.

CHARGE FREMONT PEOPLE
IGNORED QUARANTINE

Neenah—H. A. Pitt and Mary Pitt of Fremont, were arraigned Friday morning in municipal court in Oshkosh, on a charge of breaking a quarantine. They left the home of Frank Fowler, 605 Maple-st., Neenah, on March 5 while the premises were under quarantine.

NEAR EAST RELIEF MAN
GIVES SUNDAY SERMON

Neenah—Dr. David of the Near East Relief will give a talk at the morning services at the Presbyterian church Sunday. Music for the morning service will be by the chorus choir and by Mr. McGatherton. The evening service will again be in charge of the Chorus. A special musical class, music for the evening will be by the mens chorus and quartet.

to End War in Address
to Economics Club

Neenah—More than 75 persons attended the open meeting of the Economics club at the public library building Friday afternoon which was addressed by Mrs. Ben Hooper of Oshkosh. Mrs. Hooper's subject was Cooperation to Prevent War. She favored compulsory arbitration between nations to prevent war and recalled the promise we made to the boys who went across to save democracy. Unless there is compulsory arbitration we shall probably fail to fulfill that promise, she said.

Mrs. Hooper also spoke of the lack of funds appropriated by the state to carry out the mothers' pension law. The amount annually appropriated is $20,000, while the amount that should be appropriated according to the law is $400,000, she said. Mrs. Hooper also mentioned the deplorable condition of the industrial school for girls at Milwaukee and the need of $500,000 appropriation for new building.

Mrs. Stewart of Neenah gave a brief talk on the necessity of women exercising their right of suffrage. The hostesses were Mrs. William Trilling, Mrs. L. L. Whitmore and Mrs. John Studley.

"BETTER TO BE SAFE THAN STYLISH" SAYS OHIO MISS

"Auto badly injured as it hits girl pedestrian," the newspaper headlines will read if Miss Alice Edwards' idea of a nice walking suit spreads. "It's better to be safe than stylish," said Miss Edwards, of Cleveland, O., as she put on medieval raiment and went out among the hurrying, scurrying fluffers. When one struck her, the driver got an awful jolt.

Complaint that mail men are inclined to be slow sometimes is made but Earl Kimball, mail man of Cascade, Idaho, won over 17 competitors in the American dog derby at Ashton, Idaho. He and his Irish setters, one of which is pictured with him above, mushed 25 miles in one hour and 57 minutes.

Hair being woman's crowning glory, Miss Jackie Walls of Detroit has a coronet and enough left over for a royal robe. Her curls measure 51 inches. They touch her shoulders, even when curled and twisted.

This remarkable photograph might be titled "Death's Kinship." It pictures the gruesome aftermath of a battle fought by Nicaraguan Liberals and Conservatives at Pearl Lagoon. The bodies of 300 dead, from both sides, were placed on one funeral pyre. A solitary Liberal sympathizer is shown viewing the scene after the flames had done their work.

President and Mrs. Coolidge, excited by repairmen who are extensively to alter the White House, move into the Schlesinger residence on Dupont Circle, Washington. It probably will be summer before they return to the Executive Mansion. Above, we see the First Lady of the Land entering her new home carrying a clock she particularly treasures; below, carpenters busy themselves with the erection of booths to shelter the police guard about the temporary White House.

Maybe you can figure out from the above picture who's the most proficient fish catcher in the Vauchain family. To the right is Samuel M. Vauchain, president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works. His day's catch looks like small fry compared with the nine-foot tiger shark bagged by his daughter, Mrs. H. E. Hamilton, shown at the left. All the fish were caught near the engine builder's winter home at Clearwater, Fla.

Here are some of the teeth of the British bulldog on guard over the foreign concessions at Shanghai. The string of armored cars shown in the upper photo and the artillery unit drawn up below had just been landed from a British warship when the pictures were taken. The armored cars are a new type, speedier and more mobile than tanks. The Cantonese army will collide with this armament if its expected attack on Shanghai endangers the lives of foreigners there.

ANOTHER HUGE SURPLUS

A treasury surplus of anywhere from $500,000,000 to $700,000,000 is indicated for the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1927. It will not be less than the former figure and may exceed the latter, depending upon income tax receipts, which thus far have greatly exceeded those of last year. The showing is against an estimate by the treasury department of a surplus of $383,000,000 for the year. This satisfactory situation testifies to the wisdom of having the nation's finances conservatively and competently administered. It is better, for obvious reasons, that estimated surpluses be low. Not only does it make for a healthier treasury, but it has a tendency to put the brakes on national expenditures and to keep them within reason.

The large surplus for 1927 reflects, of course, a prosperous year for 1926. It also proves again that lower tax rates make for higher receipts. Every time the rates have been reduced, the returns have mounted. There is a level at which reduced rates will yield less income, but that level has not yet been reached. If business conditions continue good, there is hardly any doubt that a further substantial reduction in rates can be made to the advantage of both the public and the treasury. The future will have to determine this. The fact remains, however, that federal taxes are still excessive and ought to be further reduced.

Because of the decision of congress not to grant a temporary reduction in income taxes this year, the surplus accumulated will go to additional retirement of the public debt. This will exceed all expectations, for it will now be possible to apply to our national bonds a payment exceeding $1,000,000,000 for 1927. This will be the fourth time it has exceeded that sum in seven years, and will leave the national debt substantially under $18,000,000,000, all of which is a matter of the greatest public satisfaction. We are keeping well within our budget, reducing taxes and paying off our national indebtedness at a rate much greater than was anticipated at the close of the war. Indirectly it helps to make for better business conditions throughout the country.

WHAT IS AN EDUCATION?

A certain national magazine the other day complained that our universities and colleges must be falling down on the job, since they teach students so many things that will not help them to make a living after they graduate.

This plaint is old and somewhat stereotyped. It can be summed up as follows: don't load students up with a lot of useless classics; teach them how to better their material condition; give them training that will enable them to make $10,000 a year where their fathers made $3,000; train them for business, for industry; make solid, prosperous citizens out of them and forget all unnecessary "frills."

This attitude represents the feelings of a considerable proportion of our citizens.

Schools giving technical training undoubtedly are highly important. These range all the way from the post graduate schools of medicine and law to agricultural colleges and business schools. They include training in business administration, banking, salesmanship, industrial chemistry and so on; and they do a vast deal of good.

This much admitted, however, the question remains: should we make this kind of training the most important part of education? Why? Is it that we, as a nation, can comprehend and appreciate only those things which readily are convertible into dollars and cents?

A true education, according to the older

school of thought, has very little to do with the realities of business and industrial struggle; its chief aim is to equip the young man's mind so that he will see business and industry in their proper perspective; so that he will be able to get from life a meaning and a richness totally apart from money; so that he will be able to provide his own values for the world and its rewards, instead of accepting unquestioningly the values his fellows place on them.

It is for this that our universities teach Homer and Virgil and Horace. It is for this that Dante is studied, and Petrarch, and Shakespeare and Marlowe and Keats and Whitman. It is for this that students study the philosophies of Plato and Spinoza and Kant. It is for this that they delve in the history of ancient Rome, trace the courses of the distant stars and study such things as geology and psychology.

These studies perhaps do little to help the average graduate gather wealth. But they do immeasurably increase the young man's capacity for living a life full of beauty and meaning.

Which, perhaps, may be slightly more important.

WHAT WE CAN DO

The son of Louis Untermyer, poet, recently committed suicide. So Mr. Untermyer has announced that he will devote the rest of his life to an effort to lessen the number of youthful suicides.

He is not at all hopeful that he can do very much. For what youth needs, he says, is faith; and one man can do little to provide it for a new generation.

Youth has sharp eyes. It looks about it with a careful scrutiny, sizing up the world in which it shortly must make its way; and since years of living have not yet dulled its vision, it sees many defects that we older ones miss.

It sees, for instance, that we older ones lie to youth at every opportunity. We tell youth that honesty is the best policy—and look the other way while scoundrels get millions by shady means. We tell youth that virtue always triumphs in the end—and let youth find out for itself that there are exceptions. We announce that vision and brains are the qualities most prized by our nation—and we pay a prize-fighter more for one bout than a college president gets in a lifetime.

So, sooner or later, youth discovers that we are misrepresenting the world and life. Youth sees that we, having made the world what it is, do not seem to be very proud of our job, and constantly pretend that it has virtues that it has not.

Consequently, youth grows disillusioned, and that early.

Now restoring youth's faith is not a small job. Faith in the other world is probably something we can leave to our churches and to youth's own experience of life. But faith in this world—that responsibility is ours.

How to do it? That is a question. It might help some if we dropped a little of the cant and hypocrisy and make-believe that we are so imbued with: if instead of glossing over the unpleasant facts in our civilization we set ourselves to rectify them; if we concentrated a little more heavily on living instead of on making a living.

If youth, or any portion of it, has lost its faith, it is not through a whim; it is the inescapable outcome of the world we have made. If we ourselves do not provide the remedy, disillusioned youth, growing older, may make changes in a way we will not like.

OLD MASTERS

If the red slayer think he slays
Or if the slain think he is slain,
They know not well the subtle ways
I keep, and pass, and turn again.

Far or forgot to me is near;
Shadow and sunlight are the same;
The vanished gods to me appear;
And one to me who shame and fame.

They reckon ill who leave me out;
When me they fly, I am the wings;
I am the doubter and the doubt,
And I the hymn the Brahmin sings.

The strong gods pine for my abode,
And pine in vain the sacred Seven;
But thou, meek lover of the good!
Find me, and turn thy back on heaven.

—Ralph Waldo Emerson: "Brahma."

THE MEANEST MAN

Controversy rages in the newspapers over the identity of the meanest man. A Kansas town reports the lowest form of male as one who invited people to his home, then stole the oil from the crankcases of their cars. . . . In Kentucky a woman is seeking divorce from her husband because he held the baby upside down. . . . Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Kellogg have begun to suspect the honor belongs to Mr. Borah, the correspondent. . . . A movie actress tells the world he's the one who refused to contest her divorce suit. . . . Wonder whom Peggy Joyce would nominate?

Don't shoot until you can see the white of their eyes, is the old order. But they say that in Nicaragua that's just 1000 miles away.

The teachers were given salary raises recently, says a newspaper dispatch. The item happened to be from Wellington, New Zealand, however.

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Noted Physician and Author
Dr. Brady will answer all eight letters pertaining to health. Writer's names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

ANY YOUNG FELLOW IN NEED OF A FRIEND

Come on, now, boys, let's talk it over. Just between ourselves, and it is nobody else's business. You are growing up, 10, 12, 15, 18 years of age. You are entitled to know some things they don't teach in school, or in Sunday school, or even at home maybe. I am ready to tell you the truth just as though you were my own son. Well, keep it strictly between ourselves, understand, no outsiders listening in. It is man to man and no mincing matters. This is too sacred for any trifling.

Before you ask or say anything you have my assurance, on my honor as a man and a doctor, that whatever you say or ask or tell me will be held sacredly confidential and will never be divulged by me to anybody. That, now, something to which I am bound by the most solemn oath, anyway. But I see fit to reassure you boys of it in this particular connection, for I invite and expect perfect frankness from you in return for the careful consideration I promise to give your letters.

Whatever little thing you have on your mind, or whatever big worry there may be in your heart, remember, I am here to help you wrangle with it. Remember I never betray a boy's confidence. Remember I deem it to be the highest service I can render God and man to teach and advise you about the mysterious side of life; about your ways of living, your fancies or theories of life. Of course I am primarily concerned about matters of physiology, health, hygiene, but after all, these matters cover most of the mental problems too. I aim to show you the way to bodily health through wholesome knowledge, a healthy mind.

If or when you write me, please bear in mind the rules I insist upon: (1) Tell me frankly and in your own words what you want to know about. (2) Don't neglect to sign your letter. (3) Enclose an envelope bearing a two cent stamp and your name and address, if you expect an answer. (4) Mention your age.

I promise you I will keep it all between ourselves. That refers to the fact that you have asked my instruction or advice. But whatever I may say to you in reply is no secret so far as I am concerned. You may tell it to all the world if you wish. All I mean to assure you is absolute privacy and confidence. I do not wish to aid or abet the conspiracy of silence on the subject, and accordingly there will be nothing for you or for me to be ashamed of in what I may have to tell you. But we had better make it private, between ourselves, because people who have been brought up in the old fashioned way are likely to be embarrassed by open discussion of these things.

So come on, fellows, let's get it off our mind, off our conscience, off our chest. What's worrying you? Whadaya wanna know? No matter what it is, remember, no matter what it is, just come to me with it, and we'll see if we can't straighten it out for you, and nobody'll ever be the wiser. My great ambition is to do good if I can, and think I can in a good many cases if a fellow will only let me. It would make me pretty happy to think that here and there and everywhere there's a boy growing up happier, healthier and better because he sought and found the very help he needed in.

OLD DOCTOR BRADY.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Various Veins
Do you advise an operation for varicose veins? If so, can any surgeon perform it or does it require a specialist? They cause me much discomfort. I am on my feet a lot. (Mrs. P. C. H.)

Answer—I do not advise operation, but in some cases it is necessary. Send a stamped envelope bearing your address and mention that you have varicose veins and I will mail you some advice which may help you.

Children Must Sleep
How many hours of sleep should a 3 year old girl have? Should there be day time nap? How many hours sleep does a 9 year old boy need? Should he take a nap in the daytime? (Mrs. E. J. M.)

Answer—Every child up to the age of 7 needs 12 hours of sleep, and half an hour or an hour of this may be taken as an afternoon nap. From the age of 7 years up to the age of 12 years a child needs 11 hours sleep, perhaps a little less in summer and a little more in winter, and a child of this age needs no midday nap. From the age of 12 to 17 years a child usually requires 10 hours sleep. From 16 to 21 the average sleep pattern for health is nine hours. Young adults need eight hours. Middle aged folk seven hours. Elderly people may get along with six or seven hours sleep every night. Edison is said to do with even less.

The Entertainment Committees Get Under Way

HASKIN WRITES TODAY

ON—

THE NAVY AND THE MOVIES

Washington, D. C. — Many things in the motion picture industry are the most expensive, the biggest, or the best — or, possibly the worst, when certain scandals are considered — superlatives being constantly in use. Now comes the United States Navy and announces that it has become the largest motion picture distributor in the world.

The Navy has 1200 complete eight-reel programs in duplicate and 150 in triplicate, with almost 4800 reels of short stories, comedies, and cartoons. It takes approximately three years for a picture to complete the circuit of all naval ships and stations. During this period the film is exhibited from 125 to 140 times. Much time necessarily is taken in sending the films over-seas and to outlying stations, and in overhauling them at one of the sub-exchanges at frequent intervals.

The motion picture service of the Navy has two main exchanges, one in New York and the other at San Diego. The eastern exchange serves the scouting fleet, the control force, the special service squadron, the naval forces in European waters, the naval stations, hospitals, and prisons in the eastern part of the United States, and the naval and marine stations in the West Indies. The west coast exchange supplies films to the battle fleet, to naval stations on the west coast, at Pearl Harbor, Samoa, and Guam, and to the Asiatic fleet.

The service also supplies films to all Marine Corps posts with the exception of Quantico and Parris Island, and it has recently extended its purveying to include Army transports sailing between the east and the west coasts, the mid-Pacific islands and the Far East. Every Navy vessel that goes to Alaska carries a supply of films for the men on duty at the naval radio stations, and the naval stations in the West Indies, in Guam and Samoa, and the isolated radio and radio compass stations are kept closely in touch and if one of them indicates that its supply of pictures may be exhausted, the Department receives "urgent" requests for more films well in advance of the next ship's sailing.

FEATURE PROGRAMS MONTHLY

As a rule about 25 feature programs are acquired monthly by the Navy. Simultaneous with the release of pictures to the large theaters, the Navy starts two prints of the latest features on circuits on east and west coasts over which, as has been indicated, film travels for three years before it is returned for storage.

Occasionally three prints of a special feature are obtained and one of these is dispatched immediately so that the ships in the Far East or in European waters can show the feature within a short time after its release. The reels are sent from ship to ship until every vessel of the fleet has had them in its turn. After overhauling the reels begin their journey to the various naval stations. These latter are scheduled in circuits that make for convenience and time-saving.

The big idea of the service is to supply the ships with the pictures that are most popular with the men. To date the reports show that feature comedies head the list, while next in popularity come features with strong action factors and the animated cartoons. Reviews, late news reels, and short comedies of good quality are in demand, but the blue jackets turn their thumbs down on scenic films. Contrary to the tradition that a mail carrier takes a long walk for recreation and that a sailor wants to row a boat on his vacation, it seems that the enlisted men of the Navy, many of whom fell into the recruiting slogan "Join the Navy and see the world," get enough sight-seeing from day to day and year to year and do not care to supplement it with travel films. Screen snapshots are also on the Navy's list of "not so good."

Bands on battleships play during the showing of the pictures and during intermissions. On the smaller ships, orchestras are recruited from the enlisted personnel to play during the shows.

The elements, which affect so many phases of life aboard ships at sea, govern the movies. The regular evening show is held on deck whenever the weather permits, so that bad weather is more unbecoming to the sailor now than it has ever been. Portable projection machines are provided for use below decks, but there the limited size of wardrooms and the lack of "flickers" quarters make it possible for only a small audience to enjoy the pictures.

WORKING ON PROJECTION MACHINES

In addition to supplying the best programs that can be obtained, the Navy has been doing a great deal of experimental work to determine the best projector to meet the requirements of the service. The designing of machines was turned over in 1921 to the Bureau of Engineering, and that bureau had conducted experiments for three years at the New York Navy Yard to obtain a machine that will give long service with the minimum of mechanical trouble and at the same time give the best quality of motion picture projection.

The Bureau of Navigation also now conducts in connection with the motion picture exchange in New York and the electrical trade school in San Diego, schools for the instruction of motion picture operators. Men detailed as operators on ships and at stations are sent to these schools for a six weeks' course of training, during which they learn all they can absorb with regard to the inspection of films; cleaning splicing and patching films; and the inspection, cleaning, and lubricating of projectors, including lenses and electrical circuits. A new manual of instruction for handling projection machines is now being prepared by the Bureau of Engineering and will be issued within a few weeks.

Projection machines must come up to established Navy standards before they are purchased. Preservation of films is an especially important feature, for the motion picture service is limited to an allotment from the funds for "recreation of enlisted men" and there is no money to be wasted. With the specially designed machines, it is said, the average life of a film has been raised to 1000 showings and in the experiments one film was used 7000 times.

Prior to November, 1924, the Navy had 59 professional type machines distributed among the larger ships and 43 portable machines on the smaller vessels. To-day, every vessel, with the exception of submarines, is entitled to one of the machines of the approved types. Battleships are equipped with two projectors of professional type and continuous shows are given on their decks that may be compared favorably with those given in large motion picture theaters.

Portable machines are used for showing the reels prepared by the Training Division and the technical bureaus for educational purposes. These include special reels on marine turbines, marine boilers, storage batteries, radio, health lectures, and electricity.

Two shops for repairing projectors are maintained, one at the New York Navy Yard and the other at the Mare Island Navy Yard in California. Machines that can not be repaired on shipboard or at the stations are sent to these shops for final disposition. Some are rebuilt and later reissued, while the useful parts of others are removed and the machines scrapped.

See-Sawing On Broadway

By Gilbert Swan

New York — Those long suffering apartment dwellers who have had to stuff their ears while the young collegian next door tooted his saxophone may take heart!

And those who have been bounced from their cozy flat for practicing after 10 o'clock may also be hopeful.

For Manhattan has established a precedent. It is to have the first building entirely dedicated to those young folk and old who wish to cornet their dear heads off, or thump their energetic tenors away. It will be a five-story building, I am told, and by reversing the usual order, those who make the least noise will doubtless be the first to be ejected.

It came about this way: A young man named David Berend, one time soloist with Vincent Lopez and now a champion band leader, was once housed from his tenement by a cruel landlord who said the neighbors were complaining. Berend had been a news boy on Broadway. He had saved the pennies from his papers, and perhaps the dimes from corner crap games, if any, to buy a banjo.

Finding himself ousted from his room, the young man swore that some day he would make it possible for young musicians to thump to their hearts' content.

That day has come! Just off Park avenue, he is erecting such a building and feels that in every city of adequate size there is need for such a place.

The lure of Manhattan's glamor captures the great and the unknown alike.

Thousands dwell in back bedrooms, struggling along on meager salaries just to be within the midst of the kaleidoscopic pageant.

I remember meeting a little saxophone, grown "weasened and threadbare at her trade, who epitomized that little world of folk willing to take all the knocks the city may give them in return for the opportunity of being in the "center of things."

A comfortable place on a little farm in the middle west awaited her any time she wished to turn her feet in that direction.

"No," she said, "I think I would rather starve in New York and watch its whirl than live to a comfortable eighty in the back-country."

Which reminds me that Mme. Schumann-Heink, finishing a tour of the "states," has temporarily given up her country place in New Jersey to watch the city go by from the 16th floor of a Manhattan hotel.

Overlooking southern New York, her room catches a great deal of the amazing panorama of life and color.

And here the grand old diva sits, almost purring with contentment.

"Ah, it is life!" she says. "So stimulating. So amazing!"

— GILBERT SWAN.

FARMERS WORKING TO HARD

Editor, Post-Crescent: The farmers are working too many hours a day. The majority of the farmers are working from twelve to fourteen hours per day. They are trying to run their farms without any hired help and they can't get them if they did want them. If the farmer would work eight hours like they do in the city we could get all kinds of help. Even the farmers are running away from their farms to get employment in the city. President Coolidge was right not to interfere with the farmers marketing their produce as the farmers haven't tried to do anything for themselves. In the opinion of the writer, if the farmers would organize, and work eight hours a day they would do much better and the consumer would reap the benefit.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

THE LIFE STORY OF BUFO

BY ARTHUR N. PACK

President, American Nature Ass'n.

What do you know of the life history of this common American toad (Bufo americanus)? Briefly, here are the facts about him from youth to old age — thought by naturalists to range from 30 to 50 years.

In the spring the father searches for a suitable place for the mother to deposit her eggs. When this is found, his joyous calls may be heard announcing the fact and soon all the toads around join the community—a sort of co-operative subdivision.

Then the prospective father loads from their puffed-out throats emit their musical "songs" in joyful anticipation of their twenty thousand offspring. A few days of this song fest and then mother toad deposits her eggs in quiet water a few inches deep. In tiny black eggs are encased in two long cords of a transparent substance, each 75 feet in length, resembling strings upon some aquatic plant, twenty thousand of them in all.

The father bestows his parental care upon the eggs after they are in the water.

A few days and the eggs hatch into stumpy-tailed polliwogs. Four to six weeks more and they will have attained their full growth as tadpoles, with fish-like inclinations. Suddenly a change comes over the tadpoles. They come out of the water. The transition period from polliwog to toad has commenced.

Their tails diminish and are absorbed; the blis disappear and lungs take their place; tiny arms and legs grow. During this period if the little polliwogs can not get out of the water, they will drown.

When the little toads leave the home of their infancy and start inland, there is such a vast army of them as to give rise to the popular belief that it has been raining toads.

Good-natured and kindly, he is gobbled up in great numbers by snakes, crows, hawks and poultry. He hides under clouds and stones during the day and comes out in the evening in search of insects, caterpillars, cutworms and other insects.

DAWES WON'T MISS ALABAMA SENATOR FOR HIS RESPECT

Underwood Had Most Embarrassing Habit of Turning Back on Senate President

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington—From the standpoint of official dignity, at least, Senator Oscar Underwood of Alabama, who went out of political life with the demise of the Sixty-ninth Congress, probably will not be missed by the president of the Senate.

Although Vice President Dawes never made public comment about Mr. Underwood, he has been somewhat pained by Senator Underwood's past demonstrations of unfortunate manners. The veteran Alabama senator had his own way of addressing the Senate. Generally, when he spoke, he arose from his front row seat at the center aisle, stood in front of his desk and faced the Senate with his back to the gentleman in the chair.

To sticklers for senatorial courtesy and all that, this was very bad form. But it always proved effective, for it enabled Underwood to utilize his key-point location to its full advantage, whereas if he had merely faced the chair he would have had his back to everyone in the Senate. Some senators have purposely picked the more central desks as the best positions from which to deliver their oratory.

Others walk all over the place, speaking or not, as the case may be. Mr. Underwood is the champion roamer, he claims it's good exercise. He never stands at his desk and often addresses particular senators during his speeches by planting himself directly in front of them.

Former Senator Francis of Maryland was an incurable talker, but he always walked up and down the rear of the Senate chamber, next to the wall, when unbundling himself. Carewary of Arkansas ranks next to Copeland. He paces the floor like a restless lion, parking his hands in his pants pockets with coat buttoned and generally gazing toward the carpet. His voice is likely to be heard from any part of the chamber.

Most senators, however, prefer to stick to their own desks and to speak from them. The folks in the gallery generally have no way to identify them except by numbered charts of the floor which are presented to them and thus, if senators don't watch out, they are likely to have someone else making a speech from their own desks which will be credited to themselves and which expresses a point of view opposite to their own.

Heflin and King speak often than any other senators. Heflin, on his feet, is generally found to be speaking against some of his "enemies" or denouncing some measure. King most often opposes some piece of legislation and probably has opposed more bills than any other senator. Congress has gone home, but the offices of congressmen and senators continue to receive letters from back home urging passage or defeat of the radio bill, the McNary-Haugen farm bill or other legislation long since disposed of. Of course these letters—sometimes they're telegrams—grow fewer and fewer as the news gets around that it's all over.

A week after the radio bill had gone to the president, Senator Mayfield received 11 telegrams urging him to vote for it and nine on the day following. Most of them came from Amarillo, where considerable static apparently had been experienced.

BUILDING PERMITS

Four building permits authorizing construction estimated at $10,500 were issued Friday by Walter Zschachner, building inspector. Two of the permits were for residences and garages, one for moving a house and one for a garage. They were given as follows: A. W. Finnegan, move house from 832 W. Franklin-st to 326 S. Locust-st and build a garage; A. W. Miller, 903 W. Spring-st, residence and garage; M. J. Weber, 927 Fair-st, new garage; Earl F. Miller, Inc., residence and garage at 537 N. Mason-st.

HOLD UP TEACHERS' REPORT FOR CONVENTION

Results of the meeting of the state committee of educators appointed to study teachers training in Wisconsin colleges will not be announced until the next meeting of city superintendents of the state with John Callahan, state superintendent of schools. Ben J. Rohan, Appleton head, announced. He attended the meeting in Madison Thursday.

The committee made recommendations on what should be expected of the colleges and of their graduates. These will be submitted to the superintendents for discussion and suggestions. The committee studied data secured by the education department of the school of education at the University of Wisconsin.

HEILIG AT HEARING ON VOCATION SCHOOL BILL

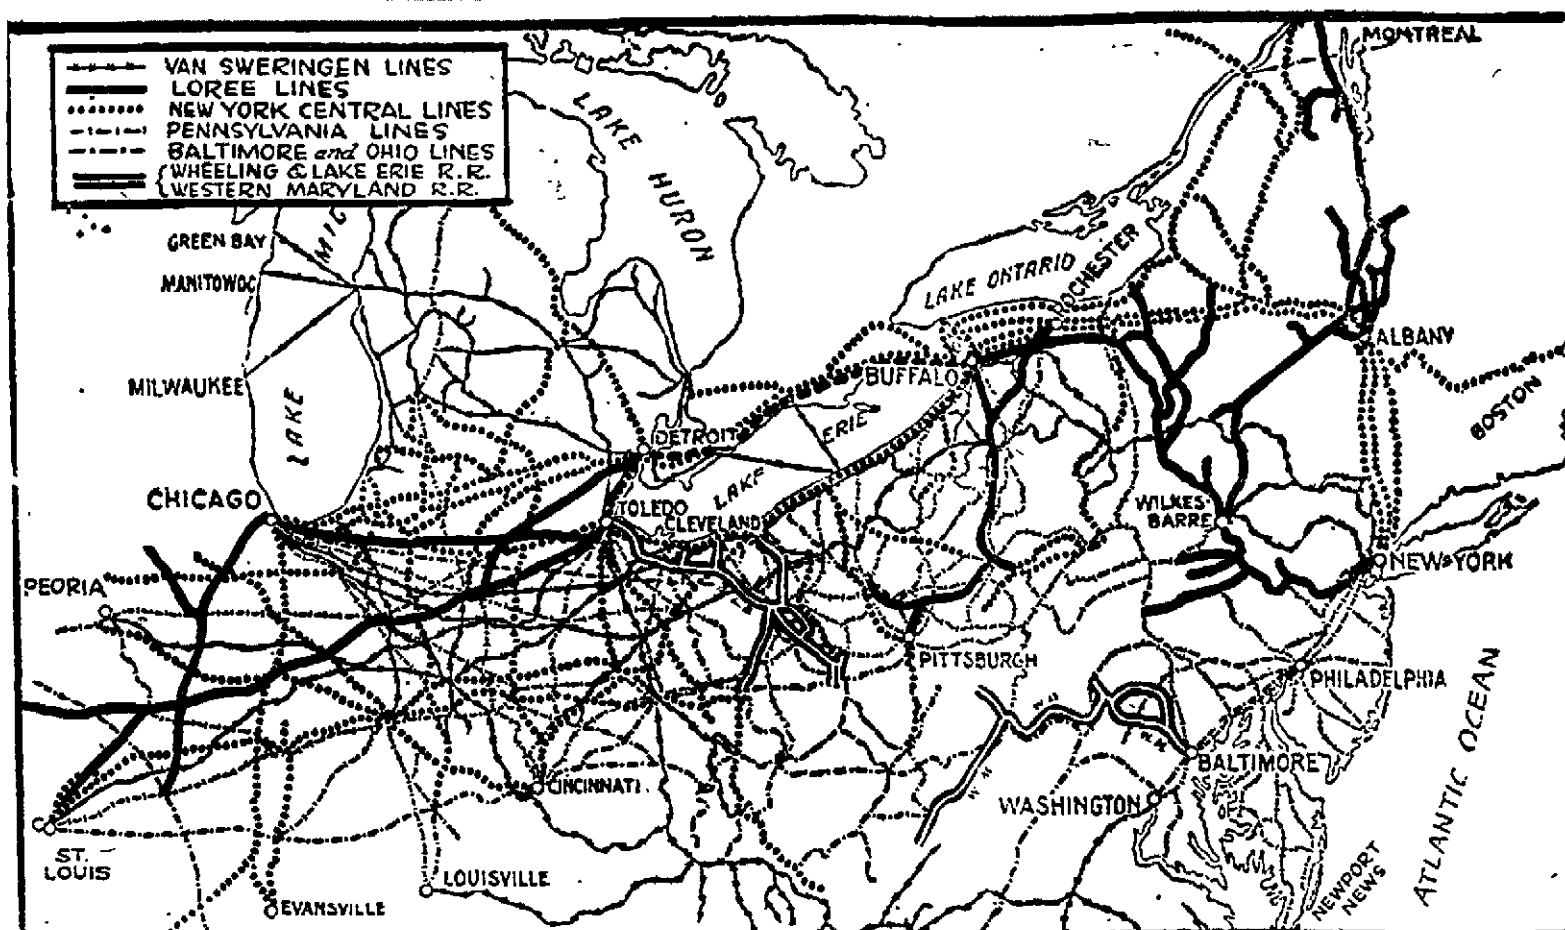

Herb Heilig, director of Appleton Vocational school and president of the Wisconsin Vocational Director's association returned Friday from Madison where he attended a hearing on a proposed bill to change the compulsory part time education law. Mr. Heilig was to speak against the bill but the hearing was adjourned until next Wednesday and he will appear at that time.

WARN DELIVERY TRUCK DRIVERS NOT TO SPEED

Drivers of delivery trucks Thursday were warned by John A. Lonsdorf, district attorney, and George T. Prinn, chief of police, to conform to the speed laws within the city limits. Police officers have been instructed to watch for speeding delivery trucks.

"Lives of pedestrians are particularly endangered by reckless delivery boys, and steps will be taken to curb their mania for speed," Mr. Lonsdorf said.

Giants Battle For Control Of Railroads

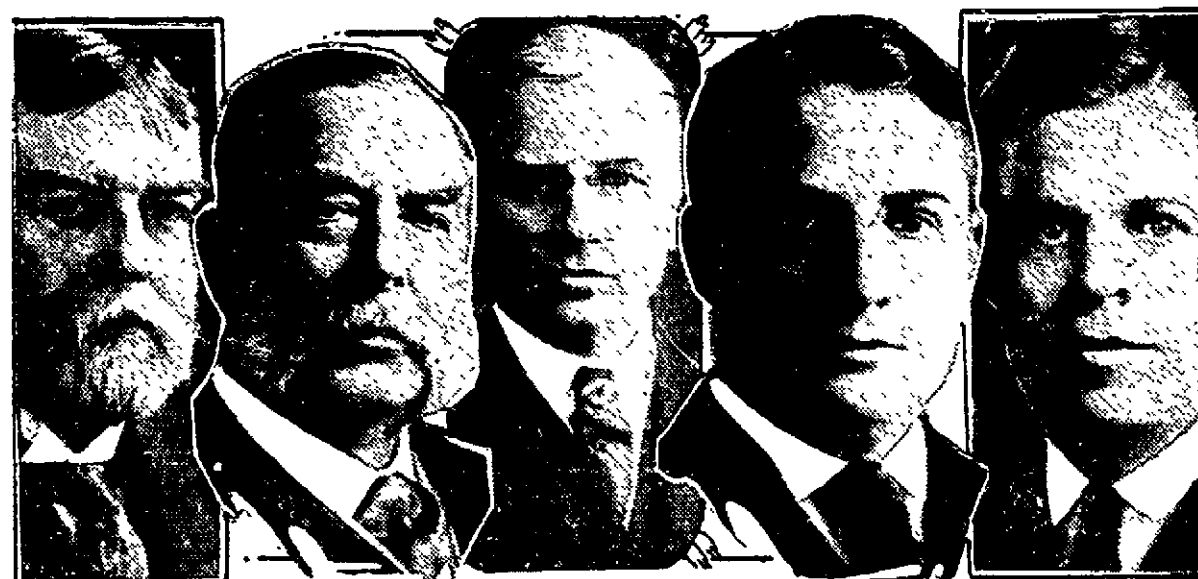

New York—(AP)—The checkerboard war of the eastern trunk line carriers to capture the rich railroad business that lies between the Atlantic seaboard and the Mississippi river continues unabated while quiet moves are planned by the captains of the railroad industry.

Nearly fifty thousand miles of railroad with a capitalization of $4,500,000,000 are involved in the tangled question whether the nation's transportation business in the northeastern section of the United States shall be carried on four highly consolidated trunk lines of a fifth system created by the building of new truckage to connect independent lines between New York and the Mississippi Valley.

In the swirl and flurry of railroad securities that rise and fall on the stock exchange; in the veiled moves of quiet buying by railroad interests of feeder railroads and in the plan proposed for rail consolidation made by the Interstate Commerce Commission may be pieced together a composite picture of a railroad war that has not its like in transportation history.

No rate war impends or is possible, the bankers say, as in other days, but it is a struggle of carrier giants to organize their strategic positions in their own field and obtain the greatest amount of gross business.

Some seven years ago this subterranean battle began with here and there only surface indications visible to the public. Today finds the question of a four or five trunk line system still unanswered by the forces led by the New York Central urging a four trunk arrangement while Leonor F. Loree, president of the Delaware and Hudson, fights for a fifth system that would link up the Delaware and Hudson, the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh and the Washington and Annapolis by new truckage in Pennsylvania with certain truckage rights over the Pennsylvania

L. F. LOREE, GEORGE BAKER, DANIEL WILLARD, M. J. VAN SWERINGEN, O. P. VAN SWERINGEN.

Loree's plan for the fifth trunk line sustained a jolt when the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh declined the suggestion of the Interstate Commerce Commission that the Loree option on that line be continued. Wall Street bankers say that if the Interstate Commerce Commission decides finally to permit Loree to acquire the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh the head of the Delaware and Hudson will again seek its acquisition.

The four trunk line system as urged by the New York Central and its friends groups the following lines: 1—New York Central, with the addition of the Lehigh valley; the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh and the Ontario and Western. 2—The Baltimore and Ohio plus the Reading, Jersey Central, Ann Arbor, the Monon, Buffalo and Susquehanna, the Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Western and the Western Maryland.

3—The Nickel Plate plus the Lackawanna, Virginian, the Detroit and Toledo South Shore and possibly the Toledo and Western Lake Erie and the Pittsburgh and West Virginia.

4—The Pennsylvania plus the Norfolk and Western, the Grand Trunk Western and the Chicago and Alton from Chicago to St. Louis.

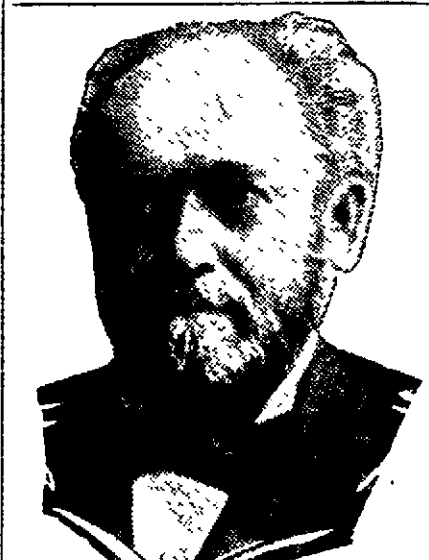

The grouping for the Nickel Plate route has been changed by the operations of the Van Sweringens who are trying to bring about a combination of the Nickel Plate, Erie, Chesapeake and Ohio, Pere Marquette and Hocking Valley.

The chief figures in fight over the four or five line systems, with the Interstate Commerce commission trying for a solution are Samuel Rea, president of the Pennsylvania; George F. Baker, dominant force in the Lehigh Valley and New York Central; Leonor F. Loree, head of the Delaware and Hudson; Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio, and the Van Sweringens of Cleveland.

ENGINEERS AGREE ON SEWAGE DISPOSAL REPORT

The final report on the feasibility of the proposed joint sewage disposal system for the cities of the Fox River valley was discussed at a meeting of engineers for valley communities at the city hall here Thursday morning. The engineer's committee requested Mayor A. C. Rule, chairman of the general committee, to invite municipalities to be represented at a general meeting in Appleton.

Copies of the engineer's report will be sent to each municipality and the mayor's letter will ask the representative of that community to become fully acquainted with the report so that he will be able to discuss the project intelligently. Copies of the report probably will be ready next week.

A Man of Rare Professional Attainment

The originator of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery was the late Ray V. Pierce, M. D. At first he practiced medicine in Western Pennsylvania and his unusual ability and success were soon recognized there, then he moved to Buffalo, N. Y. and established the World's Dispensary where his famous home remedies have ever since been made.

Each succeeding year the sale of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has been greatly increased. Evidently people appreciate the fact that it increases the appetite, stimulates the digestion, helps to enrich the blood, clears the skin eruptions and blemishes, and makes both men and women feel as they did when they were young. It contains no harmful ingredient.

Ask your nearest druggist for Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, in tablet or liquid form, or send 10 cents for a trial package of tablets to Dr. Pierce's Clinic, in Buffalo, N. Y.

HI-Y BOYS WILL BE HOSTS TO THEIR LADIES

Members of the Hi-Y club attended the lecture given by Dr. Henry H. Crane, pastor of the Methodist church at Malden, Mass., Wednesday evening at Lawrence Memorial chapel. Dr. Virgil B. How To Play Bridge

By Milton C. Work

(Readers of The Post-Crescent are invited to send their bridge problems to the Bridge Editor of The Post-Crescent and they will be forwarded to Mr. Work, author of these bridge articles. Mr. Work will answer every letter.)

The pointer for today is:

WHEN ANSWERING THE INFORMATIVE DOUBLE OF A DEPENDABLE PARTNER, BID THE LONGER OF TWO LONG MAJORS OR MINORS AND THE STRONGER OF TWO MINORS OF EQUAL LENGTH.

The pointer of today refers to the case in which the player answering his partner's informative double has a choice between a choice between a two major suits or between two minor suits—Which of course is quite different from the choice between a Major and a Minor. When the suits are of the same classification (i. e., either both Major or both Minor), it would be only with the most unusual score that there would be any difference in game-going ability. With 16 on the score, two Diamonds would produce a game and two Clubs would not, and with 12 on the score, two Spades would produce a game and two hearts would not; but situations like this do not turn up frequently, and when they do, it is easy to alter the bidding accordingly.

From a love score the lower-valued Heart will produce game as readily as the Spade; and the Club is just as apt to tally a game as the Diamond. That being the case, the doubler being just as apt to have strength in one as in the other, there is no advantage—when the suits are of the same length—in naming the weaker merely because it is the higher valued. After an informative double it is not often that the partner of the doubler has a chance to bid twice and name two suits; consequently it is advisable to mention first the stronger, which is the most apt to produce game. At one time there was a theory which found more or less support, that as between Spades and Hearts, Spades should be given the preference on the ground that the doubler was the more apt to desire the Spade. In practical play that difference does not exist. I do not know of any dependable doubler who would double with a hand containing certain spades when he would not double with the same hand if the Hearts and Spades were reversed; so the Heart should be bid in preference to the Spade if the Heart be stronger; and the same rule applies when choosing between the Club and the Diamond. Of course, if "suit" be longer than the other, that advantage should determine the choice.

PLANT FOODS MUST BE RETURNED TO SOIL, FARM EXPERT SAYS

Farmers Told Necessity of Keeping Fields Supplied With Phosphorus

BY W. F. WINSEY
Kaukauna.—The afternoon session of the Fourth Annual Mid-Winter Fair on Friday was attended by a large number of people from cities and towns located on the concrete highways.
The management of the fair, the wide range of exhibits and the diversified entertainment were well up to the high standards of former years.
J. I. Etheridge, farm agent of Oconto, acted as judge of grains and vegetables and Mr. H. W. G. G. Jamison and Henry Gueff were judges of silage exhibits.
Prof. A. R. Whitson, head of the soils department of the agricultural college, talked on "Soils and Their Problems," to about fifty dairymen in the high school Friday afternoon.
"We cannot escape competition but great good comes from it and we must prepare ourselves to meet it," Mr. Whitson said. "To help us meet it in competition we must try to increase our yields. Our profit is the amount we get above the cost of production. If we raise ten bushels of grain per acre above the amount that pays the cost of production that ten bushels is our profit. It seems to me that we should increase our yields per acre in preference to increasing our acreage."
"The greatest thing that the soil does for us is to hold the water and to hold the plant food," Mr. Whitson said. "The soil is a reservoir, and I suppose you can think that it holds too much water. Nature which supplies us with rain cannot be regulated. We can do something, however, by drainage and we can supply the soil with plant food in case of a shortage."
RESTORE PLANT FOOD
"The most important thing that the soil does for us beyond holding water for plants is to hold fertilizers that we return to the soil and to feed plants with them."
Fields of wheat in England that had dropped to 12 bushels to the acre as a result of continuous cropping were raised to 35 bushels to the acre by the application of fertilizers. To put plant food back into the soil is one of the most important things we do.
"In the Dakotas the yields of wheat once were 40 bushels to the acre. They are not as high as that now. They dropped soon to 35 bushels, then to 30, 25 and even lower than the last figures. The cause of the gradual dropping in yield was that the soil was being exhausted. All soils will become exhausted unless some effort is made to maintain fertility."
"The chief elements of soil fertility are nitrogen, phosphorus, potassium and calcium. The nitrogen is found in the proteins and any food high in protein is high in nitrogen. Other plants get their nitrogen through legumes that draw a supply from the air. When we feed alfalfa and clovers their stock of nitrogen is carried back to the soil. If a farmer has one-fourth of his land in clovers and feeds the crop on his farm and spreads the manure on his land, he can in this way keep up the supply of nitrogen in his soil. Nitrogen is a tremendously important element of soil fertilization. It gives ripening grain the yellow color and corn the dark green. It is the most important thing your farm has to keep up the nitrogen supply of your soil."
"Potassium is not found in the plant but it is used in plant growth much the same as tools are used by the carpenter in putting up a building. Nitrogen is the building material of plants. But potassium and calcium do not appear except to a limited extent in the straw and leaves. They are the tools in plant building."
"When you sell plants, you sell phosphorus and nitrogen. When you sell roughage you sell some lime and potash."
"Much of the potassium in the soil is not available to plants and the soil must have an available supply for plants as a sort of a turn-over fund to be used in grain and again."
PLENTY OF LIME
"It is difficult to keep the supply of lime in the soil from leaching and becoming otherwise exhausted. But there is lots of lime about here that can be used as a fertilizer and can be sold for $3 a ton. But your kind of lime is pretty well used up. The importance of lime as a fertilizer has been talked about for years and you understand the subject."
"Phosphorus in its pure condition must be kept under naphtha. When exposed to the air, it catches fire. It combines readily with oxygen and also with other elements in the soil. It differs from other elements of soil fertilization in the fact that very little of it is required and that it is very necessary. Plants will not grow without it. It goes to build up the protein of plants and animals and is found in the lean meat and bones. It goes into the seeds of plants. If you sell grain or hay you are selling phosphorus. If you sell peas, you are selling phosphorus. When you feed, phosphorus goes into the casing of milk or into the flesh and bones of animals. Pigs and calves use phosphorus."

Social Items

Kaukauna.—The Lady Elks met Friday afternoon in Elk hall on Second. A social hour followed the business meeting.
A regular meeting of the Womans Christian Temperance Union was held Friday afternoon in the Public library building. Routine business was transacted.
phorus in bone and flesh building. The phosphorus used in this way does not get back to the soil unless the animals die.
"Nature has set aside great storehouses of phosphorus. More of them were discovered in the west in Roosevelt's time than were ever dreamed of before."
"What does phosphorus do in the plant? It does just the thing you want done. It hastens the maturing process of crops. Corn supplied with phosphorus ripens two weeks earlier than without it. If you had used phosphate fertilizer last season your corn crop would have been worth 50 per cent more to you than it was because you would have saved it from the frost and had an increased yield. It increases the weight of grain and the production of seed. It especially increases the yield and quality of clover seed."
"The amount of phosphates to use as fertilizer depends on what you do with your crops. If you sell your crops you must use considerably more phosphates than if you feed them. Two to three hundred pounds of 16 to 20 per cent phosphate applied every third year to your soil is sufficient to maintain its fertility."
"If you apply your phosphate fertilizer to small grain that crop will be benefited and afterward the alfalfa or clovers and then the corn crop. I prefer to use phosphate fertilizer with crops sowing it broadcast at the rate of 250 or 300 pounds of 16 to 20 per cent to the acre."
"If you have no fertilizer attachment on your grain drill, the best way to do is to use an old broadcast on cast seeder for the purpose. Phosphates can be easily saved by hand in an emergency."
"Phosphates do not injure seeds. It is the nitrogen and the potash in commercial mixtures that poisons seed. One of the good things about phosphates is that you do not lose the surplus if you apply more than is needed to the soil."
"In the case of the dairy farmer, I do not believe there is any need of having nitrogen and potash in a mixture with phosphates. In a 2-1-2 mixture for instance the nitrogen would only amount to two pounds to the acre and that small amount would not do much good. If you are a dairy farmer, you ought to get most of nitrogen supply from your legumes."

LOOK FOR 100 TEAMS IN VALLEY C. O. F. BOWLING TOURNAMENT

Sixty Entries in Thus Far and 40 More Expected by Sunday Noon

Kaukauna.—It is almost certain that the number of teams in the year's Forester bowling tournament at Green Bay will be exceeded by the Forester tournament opening here at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The valley tournament will be rolled on Hilgenberg's alleys from March 20 to April 10, inclusive, with teams scheduled to bowl practically every evening. Last year there were 58 entries in the tournament and on Friday afternoon tournament secretary Herbert Haessly had already received 61 entries with promises of at least 40 more teams. These other teams found it impossible to enter in the tournament before Sunday. At least a hundred teams or more are expected at the meet. Entries received to date are from Berlin, Two Rivers, Sheboygan, Manitowish, Green Bay, Oconto, DePere, Wrightstown, Appleton, Little Chute, Neenah, Menasha, Oshkosh and Fond du Lac.
The tournament will open at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Kaukauna booster teams will roll during the afternoon and evening. A band will be on hand to arouse interest in the tournament and at 1 o'clock sharp the mayor's team, the chief of police's team and two father and son teams will take the alleys and the tournament will be on.
Included on Mayor W. C. Sullivan's team will be Joseph Kuehn, Peter Hoollihan, Frank Gertz, L. F. Nelson and Mayor W. C. Sullivan. Chief of Police R. H. McCarty will have on his team James McFadden, John Hitting, John Haid, Louis Faust and himself. Michael Maul and his four sons, Edwin, Edmund, George and Charles, will make up one of the father and son teams and the other one will be from Menasha. Other shifts will start at 3 o'clock and 7 o'clock.

COMPLETE ARRANGEMENT FOR SAFETY MEETING

Kaukauna.—Final plans for the safety rally to be held in the auditorium Saturday evening have been completed. The meeting will start at 8 o'clock and is free to the general public. Every employee of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad and family is expected to attend. John Leppia, superintendent of the Ashland division of the Chicago and Northwestern, is in charge of the rally. Speakers include Edwin Edmon, Jr., and J. Cady of Chicago and possibly Mr. Van Doren, Chicago and Northwestern counsel, as well as Mr. Leppia, Mayor W. C. Sullivan, William Asho and others.
Besides the talks a program of music has been arranged for and will be presented by local talent. The numbers include bango, piano, violin and vocal solos by well known local people. A quartet composed of Charles Clark, Lyle Webster, Otto Fiedler and E. J. Nicholson will sing several selections. Mr. Nicholson is in charge of the program.

LEATRICE JOY SCORES IN COMEDY

When our old fictional friend, Sam Weller, sounded his famous warning, "beware of the widows," he broad-asted down through the ages an admonition that has been heeded by some but disregarded by many. Whether or not Weller was right, there is no question but that widows—especially if they are as fascinating as Leatrice Joy in "Nobody's Widow," which opened successfully at Fischers Appleton Theatre last night—have the "number" of more men.

Fascinating indeed is Miss Joy as she plays havoc with the hearts of her husband whom she had left "for- ever" and the other man whom she "played" against her husband that was. It all went to prove that though sometimes "gentlemen" prefer blondes, widows of all varieties can hold their own.

And so, clinging to a ship's anchor, they go into the final indelible clinch without which no good movie is complete.

That's the way Clara Bow and Antonio Moreno ring down the curtain on Miss Joy's initial Paramount starring vehicle, "It," which arrives at the Fischers Appleton Theatre Monday.

Clara plays the part of a sales-girl in Moreno's large department store. Used to admiration, she is nonplussed when he makes no effort to gain her friendship. Then, Providence, in the form of William Austin, Moreno's pal, comes along. Austin "falls for" Clara, hook-line-and-sinker. But she uses him only as a means to reach Moreno. When she finally does get him, he—

SETTINGS IN CHINATOWN ARE SHOT WITH THRILLS, IN FINE COMEDY DRAMA

The glamour and mystery of the historic Los Angeles Chinatown to- gether with a cleverly worked out plot and an exceptional cast goes to make "Going Crooked," the Fox Films production coming to the New Bijou Monday and Tuesday one of the most fascinating crook comedy dramas ever filmed.

There is an entertainment that is sure to please every one from the youngest member of the family to the oldest, because "Going Crooked" contains a story in which mystery, thrills, suspense and humor are important in- gredients.

The story concerns a gang of in- formalized jewel thieves headed by Mordant, Master Crook, a part played with sinister realism by Gustav Von Seyffertitz, famed European star, and shows Bessie Love as an adven- tress who revolts at the life she is leading. But that only after she has met the young district attorney, as played by Oscar Shaw. The young at- torney turns "crooked" to trap the thieves, who have stolen a Rajah's di- amond. Leslie Fenton in the role of young Rogers, who has been framed by the gang and is sentenced to the "chair," gives a very interesting per- formance.

There is much humor of a kind that first brought many laughs at the first showing. Edwin Kennedy is the one who brings the laughs as "Never Wrong" Doyle, the detective.

There are also very many pleas- ing scenes in the curio shop se- quences where Miss Love is shown at her loveliest in Chinese costume. The Chinatown scenes of Los An- geles are very interesting and the picture as a whole is splendid enter- tainment. This is George Melford's first production for Fox and is an un- qualified success.

Lawrence Students Once Paid $1.50 For "Keep"

Intellectuals at Lawrence college sev- enty-five years ago had to pay a flat rate of 25 cents to peruse the musty volumes in the library.

The stain on the collegiate purse, however, could not exceed a half dol- lar a year because the 25 cent piece was only payable twice a year.

To recompense the students for this outlay of cash, authorities in the 1850 era provided rooms for $1.50 a week, which included "rent lodging, use of furniture, and washing."

This information imparted in an an- cient catalogue, bearing the official stamp of the college faculty and in which twenty-three pages are devoted to the "rules and regulations and the course of study."

The curriculum included mental philosophy, moral science, "Belles Let- tres," ancient and modern languages, and natural science. Music, drawing, and painting were offered to ladies wishing a more ornamental course. A separate department known as the "Female Collegiate Institute" was de- signed "not to neglect those minor graces that so highly adorn the lady."

Demerits were given for absence or de- ficiency from recitation, absence from prayers, absence from church on ethi- cal of the two Sunday services, and ab- sence from room during study hours. Students receiving ten demerits were privately reprimanded and students re- ceiving twenty were publicly reprimanded, after which other discipline might be administered.

For general exercises the gentlemen were to declaim and read compositions alternately each week, and the ladies compose and read once in two weeks. The first by-law provides that "All students shall rise in the morning at the ringing of the bell." Another states that "Students will be expected to cleanse their rooms as often as once in two weeks." A strict observance of the Sabbath was required for the laws specified that "on no account may the students go abroad into the fields, frequent the village, or collect in each other's rooms without permission from the proper officers." Brothers were al- lowed to "walk" out with their sisters by permission of the faculty.

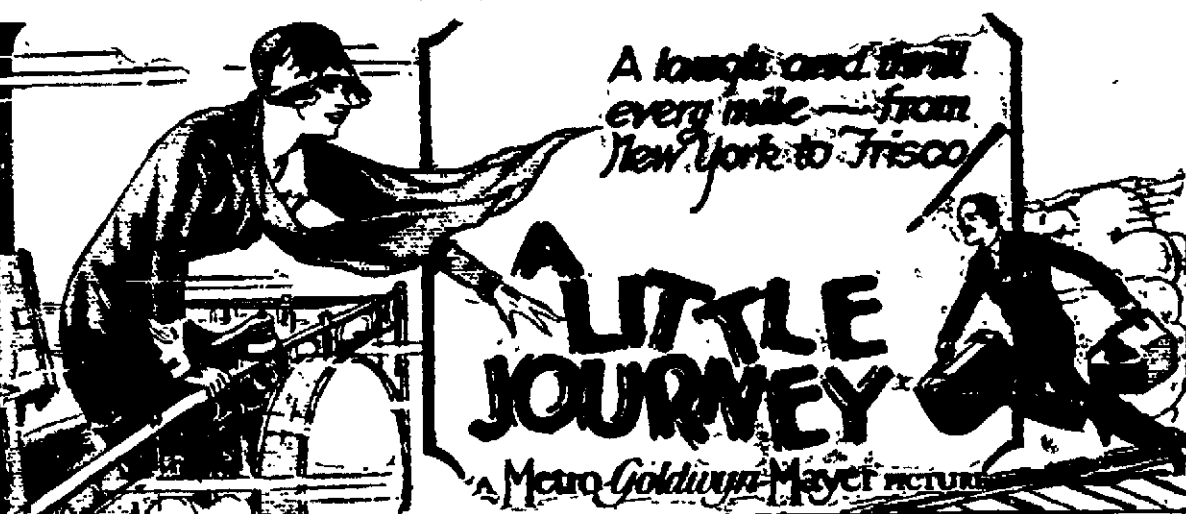

MILITARY BAND PLANS ANNUAL SACRED CONCERT

The second annual sacred concert of the 120th Field Artillery Band will be given at Lawrence Memorial chapel on Tuesday evening, March 22, ac- cording to Edward F. Munn, direc- tor of the band. The program prob- ably will include a large chorus led by Carl McKee, which will sing sacred songs.

All Appleton clergymen will be in- vited. Last year the sacred program was played to a capacity house through the cooperation of local pas- tors, according to Mr. Munn.

MUSICAL PROGRAM IS PLANNED BY CHURCH

The most extensive musical program this season at a Sunday evening motion picture service of First Congregational church will be presented Sunday in conjunction with the show- ing of the picture, "The Fool." The musical program consists of organ selections, solos and songs by the church quartet and the congregation. A talk by Dr. H. E. Peabody, pastor, will conclude the services.

The musical program will open with the organ prelude, Allegretto, Opus 63, by Volkmann, played by LaVahn Maesch. Negro spirituals by the con- gregation, soloists and the quartet composed of Mrs. Marian Ramsay Waterman, Miss Eleanor McKibbin, Carl J. Waterman and J. Raymond Walsh, will follow. The congregation led by Mr. Waterman, will sing Old Black Joe. Other numbers are Steal Away to Jesus, quartet; He Never Said a Mumbly Word, Mr. Water- man; Deep River and Go Down Moses, quartet; Standin' in the Need of Pray- er, Mr. Walsh; Nobody Knows the Trouble I See, quartet; Swing Low Sweet Chariot, congregation. The postlude, Processional March by Guil- and, played by Mr. Maesch will com- plete the musical program.

TRIANGLE CLUB PLANS FOR SUNDAY SOCIAL

Plans for the regular Sunday after- noon social of the boys, department of the Y. M. C. A., on Sunday, March 20, were made by the Freshman Tri- angle club Monday evening at the Y. M. C. A. The club will have charge of the program.

OSHKOSH UPSETS SHEBOYGAN IN VALLEY RACE, 31 TO 29

Lowly Quint Furnishes Surprise Of Last Games By Victory Over Chairs

West and Manitowoc Easily Beat East and Marinette; One Game Left

STANDINGS	W.	L.	Pct.
Fond du Lac	5	1	.833
Manitowoc	4	2	.667
W. Green Bay	3	3	.500
Sheboygan	2	4	.333
E. Green Bay	2	4	.333
Oshkosh	1	5	.167
Marinette	0	6	.000

FRIDAY GAMES
W. Green Bay 29, E. Green Bay 8.
Oshkosh 31, Sheboygan 29.
Manitowoc 33, Marinette 19.

FINAL GAME
Friday—Marinette at Oshkosh.

One of the biggest upsets of the 1927 Post Valley Conference season occurred in the final set of games Friday evening when Oshkosh's cellar champs, winners of but one game before Friday evening, whipped Sheboygan 31-29, in a thrilling battle at Oshkosh. Sheboygan was a leader until midseason when Orlebeck, regular center, was lost, and with Capt. Bobby Testwuide, leading scorer of the conference, has a threat to leaders the rest of the season, losing only four of nine games. It was an easy favorite over Oshkosh, but evidently Coach Schneider's boys finally hit their stride before the home crowd.

The win raised Oshkosh to seventh from a cellar tie. It was a free score in game but exciting because of its closeness all the way, no more than three points never separating the teams and Sheboygan leading at times.

The other games were easy wins for favorites. West Green Bay wall-popped, winning 33-19, over East Green Bay, while Oshkosh won 31-29, West's win that crew for fourth for the season, with Sheboygan as a result of the Chair loss to Oshkosh. The final game is played next Friday evening when Marinette meets Oshkosh. A Marinette win will tie the teams for seventh place, and the loss will leave Oshkosh with one win and Marinette the lowest berth and tie the Savdusters with E. Green Bay for sixth, a good record after a poor start.

STRUTZ WILL LEAD 1928 ORANGE FIVE

Veteran Forward Chosen as Captain by Mates; 10 Cagers Awarded Letters

Orville Strutz, forward for the last two years on Appleton high school cage squads and a substitute as a freshman, was elected captain of the 1928 team at an election held Friday by lettermen of the 1927 five. Ten players of whom eight are seniors and have ended their caging careers for the Orange, received letters and Sam Hilkowitz, student manager, also was awarded an A for his work. The letters were awarded by Coach Joseph Shields Friday afternoon at the general assembly meeting and the election was held immediately after.

Lettermen are: Dan Steinberg, guard, captain; Carl Kuntz, guard; Orville Strutz, capt.-elect, forward; Norbert Pfeiffer, guard; Frank Murphy, forward; Herbert Lutz, forward; Kenneth Lund, center; Chester Johnson, forward; Ronald Reetz, center; and Robert Moore, guard. Strutz and Johnson return.

The Sylvester-Nelson winter carnival award was presented to the junior class by Mr. Shields. The trophy is a silver shield on hickory wood and superimposed on the shield is the picture of two stars. It was awarded for the first time this year. The juniors scored more points than any other group. Aloysius Gage, president, accepted the trophy on behalf of his class.

H. H. Helble, principal, read a letter sent to the school by A. Jeyda, Japanese lecturer who spoke to the students this week. Mr. Jeyda declared Appleton had the best school of any city in the state he had visited.

Eric Penn, Pal Red, Boston, defeated Wilson Tard, Cleveland (10).

Jess Kennedy, St. Paul, and Red Jaderburg, Jamestown, N. Y., fought a draw (6).

Louis (Kid) Kaplan, scored a technical knockout over Frankie Fink, Texas (8).

Cardinals Confident Of Good Showing In 1927

Avon Park, Fla.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals are confident of a good showing in the world series and are proud of it. If the world chords hold out there seems little likelihood that they will be out-talked in many games this season. In the spring preparation period the conversational ball has been tossed back and forth with an abundance of second opinion to that which the regulation baseballs are thrown.

The champions seem supremely confident they will be able to repeat with the new manager, Bob O'Farrell, promoted from catcher to manager and is not dissatisfied at the difficult task of taking Rogers Hornsby's place. Frankie Fries started at a rapid pace and thus far has kept up with consistently sensational hitting around second base.

Tommy Thersnow, shining light in and out of the cage, was known as it.

MEET ASHLAND IN STATE TOURNEY

Coach Nathan Calder's Menasha high school cagers, victors over West Green Bay and New London, will leave Tuesday for Madison where they will take part in the 1927 state tourney. The Pells open the meet with Ashland, a tourney favorite. Wednesday and a victory will give them fairly easy sailing until the semi-finals. Menasha holds a win over Neenah this year, the first in some time. Godhardt, all-district forward and Heiss and Vetter, a diminutive youth with an eagle eye for the hoop, are the regular forwards. Capt. Klutz's big bulk performs at center; and Ryan, steady, long-shooting guard, an all-district choice. Webster and Klopffel are dependable guards. Schlegel is a good guard reserve and Blout is a good center, though Godhardt also is shifted to that job. With Neenah out of the state meet and no Valley conference fives entered the hopes of the entire valley center on Menasha. It is the first time a Pells City squad has gone to Madison and the city of enthusiastic followers in any branch of sport is highly jubilant. Many will go to Madison Wednesday to cheer the Blue in its first game.

KENOSHA GOES INTO FINALS IN TOURNEY

Nash Quintet Wins In Semi-finals; Will Face Champ Hilliards

Kansas City, Mo.—(AP)—The champion Hilliards basketball team of St. Joseph Saturday night faces the strong Ke-Nash-A five, Kenosha, Wis., in the final game of the National A. U. tournament here, which will determine the 1927 titleholder. The teams represent the extremes in the two outstanding styles of play demonstrated in the week's competition in which 51 teams were eliminated. The Hilliards use the fast passing attack and exhibit great accuracy in scoring on long shots. Ke-Nash-A plays a methodical and cautious game and thus far has retained possession of the ball for the greater part of the game.

Ke-Nash-A has eliminated the South Side Turners, Indianapolis; the Kansas City Athletic club, runners-up in last year's title race; the Monarchs, powerful Lafayette, Ind.; five and Wisconsin, Kahn, University. The Hilliards triumphed in a great exhibition of patience in maintaining formations in the face of speed.

Hilliards wears the scalps of the Goodyear Rubber quintet, Akron, Ohio; Phillips University, Enid, Okla.; Peru Teachers, Peru, Neb.; and Washington College, Topeka, Kan., which fell before the Mezzurans Friday night 31 to 22.

Washington will play Wichita in a consolation game scheduled to precede the championship contest.

HOMERS AID PHILS TO WHIP CARDINALS

Yank Owner Says Pennock Must Sign by Next Week or Return Contract

At Nixon and Fresco Thompson were hailed as heroes Saturday by their team mates in Phillies training camp at Bradenton, Fla. Successive home runs by these two men in the ninth inning Friday save Manager McInnis's team its second victory of the training season. Up to that point the St. Louis Cardinals were leading, 7 to 6.

Topper Rigney of the Boston Red Sox is having hard luck at New Orleans. Put out of competition a few days ago when struck by a ball in the side, he came back Friday long enough to get on the hospital list again with a painful injury in his left foot.

At St. Petersburg, Fla., the Braves have beaten the Athletics three straight. Friday's was a 3 to 1 victory.

Colonel Jacob Ruppert, who is with his Yankees at St. Petersburg, gave Herb Pennock, unsigned southpaw hurler, an ultimatum. "If Pennock hasn't signed by early next week I intend to send him formal notice to either sign or return his contract, said Ruppert.

At Tampa, the Senators won from the Giants, 2 to 1, in 10 innings. The Baltimore Orioles won from the Brooklyn Robins, 4 to 1.

Manager George Moriarty of the Detroit Tigers has begun sifting his material and indications are that many players who reported for tryouts will be returned to the minors shortly.

Lack of pitching material in their spring training program sent the Cleveland Indians on a final sprint in preparation for the 1927 championship race at their Lakeland, Fla., training camp Saturday. The star hurlers were either late comers or otherwise hampered. Two weeks was the time estimated to put the moundsmen in proper condition.

Bats of Chicago's two baseball clubs have come to life simultaneously.

Out in Los Angeles McCarthy's Cubs slapped the ball with avulsion to beat the Pacific League Angels, 8 to 6, while at Fort Worth, Hunsfield and Barrett contributed homers to help the White Sox trim the Texans, 6 to 1.

CORNER CAGERS SPLIT FINAL PAIR OF GAMES

Bull Metz's Valley Queen cagers of Twelve Corner closed their 1927 cage season this week by splitting even in two games at the Corners. Early in the week the Corners five trounced Seymour, 35-21, when both teams went on a scoring spree in the final period after a tight defensive first half which ended in a 6-6 tie. The Corners crew had the better of the "game." Spectators had hardly settled back in their seats to await an even tighter defensive game for the rest of the way, when the shower of baskets began, the home team scoring 20 points to 15 for the losers. Every man on the Corners five scored at least a basket and played a good game.

Thursday evening, the strong St. Paul Lutheran church team of Appleton beat the Valley Queen boys, 28-21, when the home team was unable to solve a fast passing attack. The Appleton team led, 16-6, at the half but the home crew staged a snappy comeback in the final period to out-score Appleton 15-11, and pull up close.

The games concluded a successful season for the Corners boys, who won about three-quarters of their battles. The team was disbanded and started work on a bowling contest.

DETROIT TEAM LEADS IN NATIONAL ELK MEET

Milwaukee—(AP)—Schulte Realtors of Detroit, Mich., assumed the lead in the team event in the Elks National Bowling Tournament here Friday night by spilling 2,870. The Detroit five collected games of 891, 954 and 995.

Harry Gerloski, 1926 A. B. C. all-events champion, led the assault with a 646 count on 184, 220 and 202. E. Hartman, and F. Breckle, last year Elks' doubles champions hit for 823 and 560 respectively, with the Detroit team.

The Normington's of Wisconsin Rapids rolled into the money with 2,663, for the second best team total of the evening. L. Mathis was high with 574. The local "Nue League Elks hit 2,489; Johnson and Hill of Wisconsin Rapids totaled 2,402, while the Waukesha Mid five of Milwaukee followed with 2,175.

Wisconsin Rapids' knights rolled their doubles and singles on the early shift and landed several men among the leaders. The R. Coffey-C. Lindahl combination swept into second place with a doubles total of 1,121. E. Roth and V. Hilding of Grand Rapids, Michigan, led the field with 1,167. E. Roth's 645 in the singles without-the-test for the best Wisconsin Rapids could produce was L. Laramie's count of 573.

Two changes were made Friday evening among the leaders of the first annual bowling tournament of the Wisconsin department of the American Legion, being conducted by the Oney Johnston post on the Elk alleys, when 100 Booster teams took the drives. No changes were made in any but the Booster events.

The Burt's Candies rolled into second place in the Booster event with a 2607 score, replacing the Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat and Power Co. No. 1 team. The Traction bowlers dropped to third, shoving the Elite Specials to fourth. The Eagle Necks shot into fifth place behind the Orstein Cloak and Suit Co. team to sixth from fourth and the Armour Hams from seventh to fifth.

Several more Booster team from Appleton were to roll on the 2 o'clock shift Saturday afternoon, and at 6 o'clock the regulars will resume their onslaught on the pins with teams from Ripon, Wisconsin Rapids and Algoma. At night the first regular two-man teams since last Sunday take the drives.

Badger Crew Rejoices As Ice Finally Cracks

Madison—Dane Fortune smiled up on the grey head of Wisconsin's veteran crew coach, "Dad" Vail, yesterday, for the broad expanse of ice which blanketed Lake Mendota for months cracked and slowly withdrew along the southern shore.

With the majority of the water still covered with ice, the Badger coach ordered the shells out and the Cardinal oarsmen experienced the earliest outdoor work out on Mendota in years. The boats were directed through the narrow strip of open water, with the men bending enthusiastically to the task, inspired by the incessant bawling of the megaphones of Coach Vail and his assistant, Teckmeyer.

The 1926 Badger Eight was seriously handicapped in the Poughkeepsie race because of their failure to get on the lake until well into April. The additional month's work on the water this spring will materially strengthen the endurance of the Mid-western entry in the Eastern Regatta, and should make the Wisconsin crew a formidable contender.

The sudden rise in temperature also resulted in a call for baseball candidates to report at Randall Field for the initial open air practices of the season. Guy Lowman drove his boat through a lively drill, and spent some time in hitting fungos to the outfield candidates. Rolfe Barnum, veteran three sport man, reported for the first time since the close of the basketball season, and worked at his old job behind the plate.

Tom Lieb, assistant Truck mentor sent out a hurry call for all weight men to report on lower campus, where the lives of the passing students are now endangered by the flying shots and discuses. The track men, recent winners of the indoor championship at Evanston, will resume training in a few days, to make ready for their outdoor schedule.

LABORATORY TO CONDUCT COURSE IN BOX MAKING

Madison, Wis.—The U. S. Forest Products Laboratory at the University of Wisconsin will give its regular spring short course in box and crate construction April 18 to 23, for manufacturers and box makers interested in developing packages which will give adequate protection to merchandise at reasonable costs.

The roster of firms represented in past box-making courses covers a wide range of industries. Manufacturers of automobiles, bolts and nuts, candies, boxes, electrical equipment, food products, linoleum, machinery, moldings, oil well supplies, shade rollers, soda fountains, and stoves were represented in a recent class.

NEEDLES AS CURE
Pyongyang, Corea—The x-ray machine in use at the Christian hospital here has disclosed some of the amazing treatments once practiced by Korean doctors of the old school. One man recently examined had 43 copper needles lodged in his abdomen. They had been thrust in, two or three at a time, over a period of four years, as a treatment for indigestion.

GREENHOUSE WILL OFFER ADVICE TO AMATEUR FLORISTS

Suggests Time to Start Gardens; Tells What Plants to Use for Various Soils

Amateur gardeners desiring advice on how to plan a successful flower garden can receive such information at the Riverside Greenhouse, which recently opened a department for helping amateurs secure better results, according to J. H. Boelter, manager. Information regarding the time to start gardens, what type of plants are best suited to particular varieties of soil and other questions will be answered.

A full line of flowers, plants for resetting, and bordering stock is carried there. The bordering stock consists of various sized and colored plants which make a background for flowering plants.

The Riverside Greenhouse recently purchased a small farm on Highway 15 just outside the city limits north of Appleton. A shrub nursery will be started there and shrubbery of all kinds for every purpose soon will be available.

Flowers of practically every kind are blooming now and the warm days have advanced the flowering season, according to Mr. Boelter. Geraniums, lilies, hyacinths, tulips, daffodils, hydrangeas, ranunculus, sweet peas, carnations, roses and snapdragons may be seen at this time. While the peak of the flowering season has not been reached, a good number of plants blossom each day.

Practically all flowers will be in bloom on Palm Sunday, the week before Easter, and Mr. Boelter is planning a spring opening and flower show when Appleton residents will have the opportunity to visit the greenhouse when all the plants are in full bloom. During the week before Easter large quantities of plants and flowers will be shipped to many small towns within a vicinity of 50 miles of Appleton to dealers supplied by the local greenhouse.

Decorative painted matting was invented for use in decorating flower pots containing plants. This matting is manufactured in all colors and a plant wrapped with it and tied with a ribbon makes an appealing gift.

BUILDING HELPING LUMBER INDUSTRY

February Permits to Build Are 5 Per Cent Greater This Year, Report

In its weekly review of the lumber market, the American Lumberman, Chicago, says:
The most encouraging development affecting the lumber industry is the gain in building activity, which in February made up a good deal of the loss that resulted from bad weather in January. Reports from 431 cities show that February permits this year were five per cent larger than those of February of last year, and that while the normal gain for February over January is only eleven per cent, February of this year showed a gain of fifteen per cent over January, indicating that construction will get under full way again in outdoor work before summer possibilities. Residential building contracts awarded in February of this year throughout the East, central West and Northwest amounted to $145,704,000, showing a gain of $2,670,000 over February of last year, which turned in a record of $143,034,000. The principal softwood mills of the country during the nine weeks ended March 5, had sold twelve per cent more than they produced, while in the corresponding period of last year the excess of sales over output was thirteen per cent. Softwood lumber has not yet had time, therefore, to reflect the stronger situation that is developing, though mill prices do show more firmness. Retail yards have just begun to move lumber to jobs, and they have had little need for other than mill assortments. None of the lumber producing regions have heavy stocks, and a good many of the retail distributors have been buying so cautiously that their holdings are at a low point, so that the starting up of the spring movement from the mills is expected to bring about an early advance in quotations, as in general softwoods are selling at unprofitable levels.

Hardwood demand is said to be broadening out, sales at automobile plants continuing good, while more business is coming from the furniture makers. Building trades demand for such items as flooring and trim normally lags a few weeks behind that for other construction items, but the outlook for good sales of such material, and of export items, is now promising. Drying has been confined largely to a few industries, and these have been taking only their current needs, so that prices have remained slow early gains.

Babson Advises Against Railroads For Young Men

Babson Park, Fla.—This week Roger W. Babson discusses the opportunity offered today by the railroads both to young men seeking employment and to the older ones with money seeking investments. This is one of his series of ten articles on "Your Boy's Business," says Mr. Babson:

GOVERNMENT CONTROL
Railroads, like all other things in the world, have their advantages and disadvantages. The chief advantage held by the railroads is that they are a natural monopoly. Since the advent of the automobile and truck, this monopoly is not so great in connection with short haul business as it still exists to a large extent. Certainly the long haul railroads have no competition, and none is in sight. Even in the case of competing lines (as is illustrated by the Atlantic Coast Line and Seaboard Airline competing for Florida business) there is no rate cutting. The competition in service and salesmanship only. The fare is the same from New York to Miami whether one goes on the Coast Line or on the Seaboard. The railroads are a natural monopoly, but this is not a disadvantage. Governmental supervision, hence we have the Interstate Commerce Commission with its arbitrary rulings.

At the present time the railroads are not suffering as in the past from government control. Since the Transportation Act of 1920 has been passed, the roads to earn 5 1/2 per cent on their valuation, the Interstate Commerce Commission has been compelled in many cases, to advance, rather than lower rates. This has especially helped the long roads and made them stronger.

A Republican administration is also favorable to the railroads and such an administration has been in power since 1920. Everything goes in cycles and unless the politicians use all their energies in attacking the railroads, Companies, or some other new public utility, they will go back to their old football games and use the railroads for the ball. A Democratic Administration would especially be tempted to do this.

PROBLEM OF UNIONISM
The chief disadvantage facing the railroads is that they are bound hand and foot by the labor unions and constantly harassed by the farmers. This is not a criticism of the unions or the farmers. In the fight of the labor unions and the dissatisfaction of the farmers are signs that the people are struggling for better conditions. Moreover, 90 per cent of all business depends upon agriculture and payrolls. Hence, unless farmers and wage workers are prosperous, there is little hope for manufacturers, merchants and transportation companies. When the railroad employees received an increase last month, amounting to $10,000,000 annually, this means that $10,000,000 more will be spent in wages or salaries. The farmer, the wage worker, the home owner, the automobile owner, the savings bank owner, I think that it is inevitable that the employees of the railroads be unionized. Moreover, every other industry with a natural monopoly is sure to be unionized some day.

Nevertheless, the high state of union control existing today among railroad employees is a serious handicap to initiative, economy and discipline. A young man with ambition and love of freedom must think twice before selecting the railroad world in which to make a living. It is true, on the other hand, that there is little hope for the farmer and the dissatisfaction of the farmers are signs that the people are struggling for better conditions. Moreover, 90 per cent of all business depends upon agriculture and payrolls. Hence, unless farmers and wage workers are prosperous, there is little hope for manufacturers, merchants and transportation companies. When the railroad employees received an increase last month, amounting to $10,000,000 annually, this means that $10,000,000 more will be spent in wages or salaries. The farmer, the wage worker, the home owner, the automobile owner, the savings bank owner, I think that it is inevitable that the employees of the railroads be unionized. Moreover, every other industry with a natural monopoly is sure to be unionized some day.

SEARCHERS STILL DIG FOR LAFITTE'S TREASURE TROVES
Dreams of Booty Still Lure Treasure Hunters to Marshes of Louisiana

New Orleans, La.—The fabulous pirate's gold of Jean Lafitte, notorious buccaner, who hid his treasure hunters to the marshes of southern Louisiana, is still being sought. A century has not diminished the search for Spanish doubloons and pieces of eight supposed to have been enched by the free-booter somewhere along the great coast stretch south of New Orleans. So avid have been the diggers on the plains from Barataria and Grand Terre to the Texas border that in several sections, plots of land resemble deserted shell-battered battlefields.

On Grand Island, in Vermilion parish, six miles from the Gulf of Mexico, trees have been uprooted and bones, pottery, arrowheads and other relics removed from the Indian mounds there, but no treasure has been found. Excitement prevailed among residents of the Vermilion bay section a little more than a year ago, following the report that a treasure trove had been unearthed but the find never materialized.

PIRACY DISPUTED
Lafitte, most authorities agree, died in Silan, Yucatan, in 1825, although some say he perished at sea nine years earlier. The romantic figure of Gulf coast tradition always contended that neither he nor his men were engaged in piracy. He claimed that he had authority from the republican party of Mexico to plunder the Spanish treasure fleets and to make life hard for opponents of the political body. General Morales, president of a revolutionary party, is reported to have given Lafitte a ship to aid him in obtaining assistance for the "patriotic" cause. The vessel was once at the place the rivers and bays. Tangible evidence that Lafitte and his men ever buried any treasure is lacking.

MAKES IT EVEN
"I say, doctor, that bill of your's was run up pretty high, I s'pose." "But think how much I saved you by forbidding your wife to go to the Riviera this winter!"—Falling Show.

SKEETICAL
"I fired. Imagine the thrill I experienced. The lion lay dead!" "What had it died of?"—Judge.

SKILL REQUIRED TO DESIGN AWNING FOR MODERN RESIDENCE

Manager of Appleton Awning Shop Tells How Work Should Be Done

Utmost care and skill is required in designing awnings for homes that will fit their surroundings both in color and in architectural design, according to A. M. Paegelow of the Appleton Awning Shop. Before an awning is made it is necessary to measure the window, door, or opening where it is to be placed, and a visionary picture formed in the designer's mind. Next the designer must make a free hand sketch of the awning, and then draw a more exact figure and insert the correct measurements. The actual work of making it then starts. Water and fade proof material is used for the covering, and galvanized iron and piping is used in the frame work. Practically all well known architects include awnings in their plans for modern homes. A home constructed without an awning is lacking one of the most modern essentials, according to Mr. Paegelow. Awnings are becoming more popular and it will not be long before a home won't be complete without them.

Awnings for homes may be purchased in almost any color or combination of colors. Various colors can be chosen to match the general color scheme of the home or to accentuate it.

Mr. Paegelow received his early training in canvas work with the J. W. Brothers company of Milwaukee, well known ship chandlers and sail makers. He started with them in 1900 and worked for 15 years at the trade. As steamships slowly began to replace sailing vessels the company started to specialize in making awnings and Mr. Paegelow became a salesman and designer. He planned awnings for many of the finer homes in Milwaukee.

His health forced him to quit work and he went to St. Paul and Minneapolis where he worked at his trade. He returned to Wisconsin and settled in Racine but again his health forced him to abandon his work and he went to Los Angeles, Cal. Here he studied trade and learned many more facts about the awning business. Then he came back to Appleton and determined to settle in a small town.

With his wife he journeyed through the northern part of the state and finally located in Appleton. He opened his shop here in 1922.

MARKET IN STEEL CHANGES LITTLE

Impending Bituminous Coal Strike Fails to Change Situation

Cleveland, O.—IRON TRADE REVIEW says:
In two weeks the iron and steel industry will be making its turn into the second quarter and apparently will be confronted with a bituminous coal strike yet, indicative of the new order that prevails, neither has provided any appreciable market stimulus.

Hand-to-mouth buying is so dominant in steel that little is heard of second quarter coverage, but current requirements are of such proportions as to insure a March preceptibly better than February, impart a stronger tone to all markets save some in the East and lengthen the modest hopes of some producers.

Fortified by 60 to 80 day piles and confident of heavy nonunion production, the industry views the coal strike threat with complacency. It is generally believed that the strike would disturb the markets imperceptibly in the second quarter and that the repercussions—if any—would be felt in the third quarter.

The week's developments strike a balance on the side of improvement. Incoming business suffices to maintain an average steel production rate of about $8 per cent, with Steel corporation subsidiaries above 95. Steel prices generally are holding, while the tendency in pig iron is upward. Only in pig iron has demand abated but here the subsidence comes after several weeks of heavy buying.

The automobile industry has been conspicuous in the week's market activity. Practically all makers, excepting Ford and Dodge have been augmenting shipments of sheets in the Pittsburgh and Youngstown districts. Intense interest centers on Ford, Corporation subsidiaries above 95. Steel prices generally are holding, while the tendency in pig iron is upward. Only in pig iron has demand abated but here the subsidence comes after several weeks of heavy buying.

Semifinished steel continues to acquire strength at Pittsburgh, $34 now being generally quoted on billets. A tight situation is developing in the quarter and the basis at Pittsburgh. Four or five steel interests are out of the market, supplies are scarce and prices reflect proportionate strength.

Beehive furnace coke has surrendered the 25 cent gain of last week and offers of $3.25 are fairly extensive. Sheets are most steady at 2.90c. Pittsburgh for black, 2.20c for blue annealed and 3.75c for galvanized, although buyers still can better these levels. Tin plate production is believed due for a letdown in April, following many months at practically capacity. For one thing, mill equipment is beginning to show the effects of this fast pace.

Plates at Pittsburgh are relatively more active than other heavy finished lines. Deliveries on bars have fallen behind somewhat, two or three weeks now being asked by most makers. Bar specifications at Chicago lead those for plates and shapes and new business exceeds shipments. IRON TRADE REVIEW composite of fourteen leading iron and steel products has risen for the second con-

POLYGAMY AND VIEL ARE POPULAR IN TURKESSTAN

Samarkand, Uzbekistan Soviet Republic.—Mustapha Kemal Pasha's sweeping ban on polygamy, the veil, the fez and religion has not extended to other Mohammedan countries.

For instance, here in Turkestan, where 90 per cent of the 6,000,000 inhabitants are Moslems, all the time since the long down town was arrested. This index this week stands at $36.87, compared with $36.79 a week ago and $38.88 a year ago.

IRON TRADE REVIEW.

honored customs of the followers of Mohammed are still observed. Multiple wives are still the rule, although hard times are forcing many native men to reduce the number of spouses allowed them by the Koran from two to four, and in some cases of poverty are reduced even to one. But the veil, fez and mantle still persist. No convert Uzbekistan or Tadjik would "profane" himself by removing this emblem of his faith, nor would any Moslem woman degrade herself in the eyes of her race by exposing her features. By the natives Mustapha Kemal is looked upon as worse than an infidel for repudiating the command of the Prophet. All the thousands of mosques in Turkestan are running full blast.

THE TRAINED CATERPILLAR

(Overheard by H. N. Chrysan)

Andy Ames, the able motary public and fertilizer salesman of Squash Corners, carved a chew off a yard of plug tobacco and remarked:

"Maybe you never heard about Prometheus, the trained caterpillar Elmer Hooftelster used to own?"

"Well, it was a dandy. That caterpillar would crawl down a pipe stem and brush it out clean as a whistle. After that, he went to the pump and sat there whining and whimpering until somebody drew some water so he could take a bath."

"He came in mighty handy when the women were washing bottles. He'd hold his nose and shut his eyes so as not to get soap in 'em, and down into the suds he'd go, and such a splashing you never saw in your born days!"

"Well, sir, all at once Prometheus' hair started coming out. He was heart-broken! They did everything they could for him. They tried all the tonics that were ever invented, but nothing would restore his hair."

"Shame at his appearance and despair because he was no longer useful preyed on him so that he finally committed suicide in the medicine chest with an old safety razor blade. His

New London Citizens Anticipate Several Close Contests April 5

New London—With the terms of 14 offices expiring during April and May in the city of New London, a lively spring election is promised for the period just before Tuesday, April 5. Offices to be filled include five aldermen, five supervisors, three school commissioners and one police judge. These from the First Ward whose terms expire during the spring months include Gus J. Fuerst, alderman; Mrs. F. J. Pfeiffer, school commissioner, and Ike Poeske, supervisor. The Second Ward will elect an alderman in place of Matt Clark, and a supervisor in place of Fred. The third ward vacancies occur in the offices of H. T. Knapstein, alderman; school commissioner, J. F. Crook, and supervisor, H. F. Fuerst. In the Fourth ward August Meinhardt has announced his intention of withdrawing as alderman. The supervisor in this ward also expired. William Plotz's term as alderman from the Fifth ward expires as does the office of school commissioner held by A. O. Zerrner, and the office of supervisor held by Jacob Werner. The position of police justice held by Fred A. Archibald expires on May 1.

NEW LONDON SOCIETY

New London—The regular meeting of the local organization of Girl Scouts was held Thursday evening in the city hall. Plans were made for a hike and picnic after which will take place Sunday afternoon. No date has yet been set for the opening meeting of the organization but it will probably take place in the near future. Each of the three patrols will have charge of a special part of program.

The ladies of the Liberty district will meet at the home of Mrs. William Gens for an evening of social and business of the home economics department of the University Extension division. During this meeting the husbands will be entertained at a game of cards. At the conclusion of the women's program, a radio party will be enjoyed. The evening will be concluded with a lunch which will be served by the hostess.

The St. Patrick dinner which was scheduled to take place at the Catholic church at Lebanon, Thursday, was postponed until Sunday, due to the poor condition of the roads.

Members of the faculty of the McKinley school entertained the teachers of the Lincoln school at a St. Patrick party Thursday evening in the McKinley school building. The evening party was conducted, Mrs. R. J. McMahon receiving the prize for being the most efficient "pupil" present. A musical program was enjoyed consisting of the following numbers: Vocal selections, Miss Ruth Anderson and Miss Frances Corry; violin selections, A. F. Christ; piano duet, Miss Anna Love and Miss Eugenia Bittner.

New London—Word has been received here of the marriage of Mrs. Molline Mericle, formerly of Maple Creek and now in this city, to Frank Veeder of Milwaukee. Mr. and Mrs. Veeder will make their home in Milwaukee where the former is in business. The couple is visiting in the homes of the bride's sister and brother, Mrs. Edward Hoffman and Charles Kiekhoefer.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Mayme Mateson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mateson of this city, and Herbert Bradway son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bradway, of Maple Grove, which occurred Tuesday, March 14, in this city. The young couple will make their home in Maple Grove. The bride is well known here, having attended the public schools for a number of years and the county training school. For the past few months she has been employed as bookkeeper in the Seering department store.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Surprise Sr., of this city, announce the marriage of their daughter, Ethel, to Peter Erk of Chicago. The wedding occurred recently at St. John's Catholic church in this city. Mr. Erk owns and operates a theatre. The bride formerly was a member of the Erk Vaudeville Co., previous to which she traveled with the LaTurner Show Co. They will make their home in Chicago.

A penny social was given at the Congregational church parlors on Friday evening. Special features of amusement were presented and participants paid a penny for each feature in which they were engaged.

At the Emanuel Lutheran church parlors at 8 o'clock on Sunday and Monday evenings the home talent play, "An Adopted Cinderella," will be shown. The cast has been selected from among members of the Waltham league.

SODA GRILL PINMEN TO MEET DE PERE FIVE

New London—On Sunday afternoon Melkilejohn's Soda Grill team will bowl the Mac's Bakery's de Pere. The match game will start at 2 o'clock, at Garot's alleys. In the sweepstakes tournament, being held at the same alleys, Ramm and Penny are still in first and second place. Cline who was in fourth place, has raised to fourth place with a score of 395.

Roads Near New London Worst In Several Years

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Joseph V. Moser, a dairyman on route 4, started out on his route on Friday in a horse-drawn milk wagon, which was loaded with cottage cheese, butter, eggs, milk and cream. The wagon became mired. When neighbors attempted to pull the wagon out it came completely apart, leaving its contents into the mud of the road.

Highways leading into this city are in worse condition than they have been for several years. This has been brought out repeatedly during the past week, when garage men and farmers have been busy giving first aid to motorists who found themselves beyond their depth in mud. The upper Shiocton road, leading out of New London, presents grave difficulties to the farmers. The road is practically impassable to cars, and physicians and mailmen cannot entirely depend upon horse driven vehicles to get them to their destinations.

Milk trucks on Friday sank so low into mud above the wheels. One truck was mired so badly that five horses could not draw it out, but only succeeded in breaking harness and tackle in their attempts to move it. A county tractor, brought into use at the opportunity, time succeeded in pulling it out to dry ground.

Highway 25, between the city limits and Sugar Bush has been temporarily rerouted over the single pavement road which passes the Rossey farm. The Manawa road has several bad places in it which render it unsafe, the last mile being through the town of Clayton until Highway 22 is reached, and then to continue by way of Bear Lake. The road to Readville, after leaving the gravel, is a hopeless mass of swamp muck. According to one motorist, the bottom of the roadbed is not to be found before Saturday night at the earliest.

Garage men urge motorists to be careful in the use of their cars during these weeks of bad roads. Much future engine trouble is avoided by not racing the engine in mud, which, they explain, as this causes the car to dig its feet ever deeper into the mud. Fast driving over frozen, rutted roads is another thing to be avoided, in their opinion.

TO HOLD FREMONT CAUCUS MARCH 22

Town of Fremont Caucus Will Be Held Two Days After Village Nominations

Special to Post-Crescent
Fremont—A caucus, to nominate candidates for the various village offices to be voted upon at the regular spring election April 5, will be held at the village hall at 7:30 Tuesday evening, March 22. The present village officers are: president, E. A. Sader; clerk, Joe Giel, Jr.; treasurer, Ben P. Pitt, justice of the peace, (two years) Paul R. Kohl; constable, Edward Teska; marshal, Charles Clow; and trustees, E. P. Sherburne, Frank Walker, Ben Reibner, Frank Looker, Walter Arnold and Frank Koch.

The caucus will be held at the town hall, at 1:30 Thursday afternoon, March 24. The present officers of the village are: president, E. A. Sader; clerk, E. P. Sherburne, Frank Walker, Ben Reibner, Frank Looker, Walter Arnold and Frank Koch.

The spring fishing season has commenced at Fremont. A number of good catches of pike were made this week, and some out-of-town fishermen visited Fremont and the Wolf River here. Pike fishing will be good for several weeks, when the white or silver bass will start running. This season lasts for over a month, and Fremont enjoys an advantage over many towns in the state for its great bass fishing in early summer. Local bait livers are prepared for the season.

50 Miles an Hour All Day Long

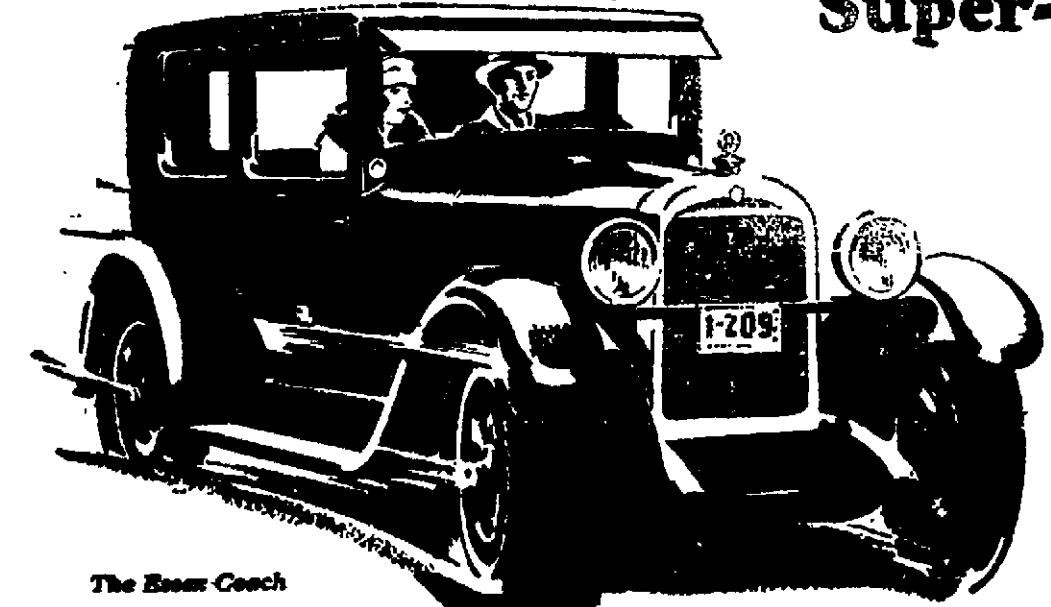

With Ease to Car and Comfort to Passengers

This is far below the maximum speed of the Essex Super-Six. Yet it illustrates another brilliant side of Essex performance—the ability to cover long distances so smoothly and easily that neither car nor passengers are conscious of the effort.

Flashing pick-up, positive brake control and easy steering give nimble, fast and safe going in traffic.

The new Essex Super-Six is a triumph of engineering—for long wear, accessibility and lowest operation and maintenance cost.

ROAD COMMISSION IS PREPARING TO MARK HIGHWAYS

Fresh Paint and Thousands of Posts Will Be Loaded on Trucks Soon

Madison—(P)—With the approach of spring and the tourist season, the traffic department of the state highway commission is preparing to complete marking of Wisconsin roads. Fresh paint and thousands of posts will be loaded on trucks soon to start the campaign, guiding tourists from out of the state, and those within, to various destinations.

A report from the department for last year stated that approximately 2,200 miles of state trunk highway were marked during the period.

"These roads now have the new type of direction marker," the report said, "which is a sign with a black border and with black lettering on white background. They also have the caution and warning signs. Specifications as to shape, size and color for caution and warning signs have now been adopted by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads and those in Wisconsin will conform with similar signs throughout the United States.

The United States system of highways in Wisconsin was not marked as such in 1926, but the signs, which are a shield with the name of the state and with the interstate highway number on both sides, have been made at the state prison and are now at the division offices ready for erection as soon as weather conditions permit in the spring.

"About ten thousand 'Stop' signs were purchased through the state prison during the past season and all of the highways designated by the commission as arteries for through traffic have been marked as such.

"During the past month a committee of engineers discussed the rules and regulations for marking and signing. In cooperation with the division engineers the regulations were revised and the marking and signing manual is now in final form.

"Contracts have been let for the cedar posts necessary for marking and signing purposes in 1927. It is estimated that 18,000 posts of various lengths will be necessary.

"The department furnishes a complete motor traffic information service and has at hand road maps and wall maps for nearly every state."

EXPECT CLARION COPY BY SPRING VACATION

Almost all of the material for the Clarion, Appleton high school yearbook, will be turned in by spring vacation. Miss Dora Kelly, editorial sponsor of the book, announced. Proof of part of the copy has been returned by the printers now and pictures for the book are practically completed. More pictures will be included in the work this year than ever before, she said.

All art work has been done by students this year instead of partly by outsiders as in the past. Sponsorships are being secured by the financial staff from Appleton business men. This method is used to help finance the book instead of advertising.

RAILROAD GIVES LOW RATE FARE TO MADISON

A special excursion fare rate to Madison has been announced by the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad to be in effect April 29 and 30. The special fare, which includes a round trip to the capital city for the price of a one way ticket, has been announced to give Appleton citizens a chance to attend the fourth annual University of Wisconsin Intercollegiate Relay on April 30.

At Sea Carolyn Wells

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE
Death strikes GARRETT FOLSOM while bathing at Ocean Town, N. J. It is thought at first he is a simple victim, but investigation shows he has been stabbed to death beneath the water.

Folsom's swimming companions had been ROGER NEVILLE, a business partner; MISS HELEN BARNABY and CARMELITA VALIRON. It is established that Folsom, just before his death, had been standing next to NED BARRON, known as the copper king.

ANASTASIA FOLSOM, eccentric and masterful sister of the dead man, arrives and takes command. At the inquest it is established that the death weapon was a pinhead, an Oriental knife, and that it had been bought on the boardwalk.

It is also established that one CROYDON SEARS is a fan of curious knives. Anastasia engages TITUS RIGGS, an architect, to work on the case. DAN PELTON, the dead man's nephew, arrives. He is Anastasia if he may have the curious French dolls in Garrett Folsom's room.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXII
"Yes, of course," Anastasia said. "I don't know I don't want them. But what did you hear about the people being so interested?"

"I heard it on the train coming down here," Dan Pelton answered. "On the stage contraption that brought me from the station. In the lobby as I came through. At the desk as I waited to hear from you. The tongues were wagging all around."

"Did you—did they suggest any names?"

"There seem to be names in the air—the Tracys, who are they?"

"Nonsense, they're people who stood by. They only knew Garry slightly. I have a detective engaged—that is, he's not a detective, but I propose to make him over into one."

"Fine plan," said the nephew with sarcasm.

"Yes, it is," said Miss Folsom quite unconcerned at his sneer. "I was sure you knew him—Riggs is his name. Now, Dan, first of all, if you're going to take these rooms of Garry's—and I think it's a good idea—help me find another suite, for me and Paxton, and you get hold of Ross to help us move."

"Good, auntie. How do I get hold of Ross?"

The dead man's former valet was summoned, and seemed willing enough to take service for the present with the nephew of his later master.

"We've met before, Mr. Pelton," Ross said, "though not often. And I'm glad to stay here, hoping I may be of some use in helping Miss Folsom find the villain who used that dagger."

"Yes, we're all going to do all we can in that line," Dan agreed, and then they set themselves to the matter of getting more rooms.

"What sort of comments do they make on my uncle, Ross?" Pelton asked, casually, as they were at last by themselves and Ross was unpacking his new master's belongings.

"Well, Mr. Pelton, that's a hard question, because I dislike to say hard things of Mr. Folsom, even if they're only the speech of others. But he was not highly spoken of by many, sir."

"Yet few down here knew him."

"More than you'd think, sir. Many a man knew him or knew of him who has only said so since he's gone."

"You liked him, Ross?"

"He was a good master, sir. Strict, indeed, and insistent on his orders being carried out to the letter. But just and fair, and liberal enough."

"In money ways, you mean?"

"That, yes, sir, and also in the matter of time off and vacations and amusements. Whenever he was to be out himself he'd bid me go out for a bit of an outing."

"I see. And you were in bathing the morning he was killed?"

"Yes, sir. I went in soon after he did, and I took care to be out and dressed in time to be here when he came in. Shall you bathe today, sir?"

"No, I think not. I'd like a dip, but I think my aunt would object. You know, Ross, the funeral will be tomorrow."

"Yes, sir, but not exactly a funeral, is it, sir?"

"Not what it would be if we were in Chicago. But I daresay it'll be all the services my poor uncle will have read over him. For my aunt plans to stay here on the job. What do you think about it, Ross? Any idea who did for my uncle?"

"No, Mr. Pelton, I've no idea. Mr. Folsom did have some—well, what I suppose might be called enemies, sir, but they were not down here. I mean men in Chicago, businessmen and such."

"Yes, that's just the way I look at it. Yet he was killed down here. But perhaps, any or all of those Chicago businessmen might have been down here and no one suspect their presence in the crowds on the beach and in the ocean."

Dan Pelton joined his aunt for luncheon, and they sat in the public dining room, quite indifferent to the curious eyes that watched them and the busy tongues that wagged in gossip about them.

They had reached the stage of coffee and cigars when Roger Neville came into the room, accompanied by Mrs. Valdon.

The pair at once came over to the table where Miss Folsom sat and renewed their acquaintance with Pelton.

Dan was glad to talk to Neville, and proposed that they all go up on the veranda, or deck, for a chat.

The others, who had lunched already, assented, and they went, joined later by Mrs. Barnaby, who had not before met Pelton.

She annexed him at once, as she did any available man, and exclaimed, admiringly:

"I declare, the more I see of the Folsom family the better I like them. Poor dear Mr. Folsom was such a darling, and Miss Folsom is truly magnificent. And now you, Mr. Pelton! You're the son of another sister!"

"Yes, my parents died years ago, and my aunt and uncle have looked after me."

"Fortunate boy! Except, of course, this terrible tragedy. But we won't talk of it, shall we? For we won't have some relaxation from the nerve strain and sorrow of the occasion."

"That's just it, Mrs. Barnaby."

"Oh, call me Duchess, they all do."

"Glad to. Suits you, too. How well Mrs. Valdon is looking."

"Carmelita. Yes, she's in great form this summer. You're staying?"

"As long as you will be kind to me."

"Why, you little rascal! I do believe you're a flirt!"

Pelton was a flirt; so much so, that he said frivolous things without thinking, and always without meaning. It was second nature to him to compliment women and young or old, he used the same jargon.

But he suddenly became aware that a sort of council was about to convene. Anastasia, intent on her one pursuit, had found Tite Riggs in his usual corner of the deck, and she pounced upon him dragging the rest of her flock with her.

"Now, we must talk," she decreed. "We are secluded here, and I have gathered the ones I want about me. Who is this young man, may I ask?"

Anastasia had a way with her that

At the top is an officer of the court.

often robbed of rudeness remarks that would have been insufferable in another. She looked benignly, as she spoke, on Robin Sears, who had only a moment before paused to speak to Riggs, whom he knew. "This is Mr. Sears," she was told, and as Robin was about to pass on,

Miss Folsom laid a detaining hand on his shoulder. "Please say," she said, a little emptily. "You are the son of the

Mr. Sears who bought daggers at the auction last Thursday night?" "Yes, Miss Folsom; does that interest you?" Robin responded.

350 WOMEN TAKE PART IN SWIMMING CLASSES

Three hundred fifty women and girls have taken advantage of the swimming classes sponsored by the Appleton Womens club at the Y. M. C. A. pool since Oct. 1. A total attendance of 1,505 was reported by Miss Agnes Vanneman, recreation director at the club, who has had charge of the classes.

Several of the 350 persons attended the classes only once but the majority have been more regular, it was said. The classes will continue until May.

One of Anastasia Folsom's characteristics, and perhaps one of her besetting sins, was a quickness to take offense.

She did so in this instance, and retorted, sharply: "Very much. Will you be good enough to grant me a short interview?"

"Of course he will," Tite Riggs answered for him, and a little bewildered, Robin sat down.

With a gesture that seemed to fling the rest of her crowd into nearby seats, Miss Folsom, sitting directly in front of Robin, began a fire of questions.

Again suspicion seems to fall on Croydon Sears, Robin's father. Read the next chapter.

MUSIC —the Voice of the Emotions

A BOY laughs or a girl cries! Why? Because there are no words adequately to express their feelings and their feelings must have vent.

Music expresses emotions which can be expressed in no other way. Neither tears nor laughter nor words can tell the story of our moods, our aspirations.

Joy, sorrow, yearning and light-hearted gaiety are all reflected by music. Furthermore, it harmonizes with them all, softening sorrow and adding zest to joy and gaiety.

Neglect to make proper provision for music in your home is more than an oversight. It is a deprivation to the entire family of a wholesome pleasure and a stunting of part of their nature.

Let us be known by the Quality Instruments we sell

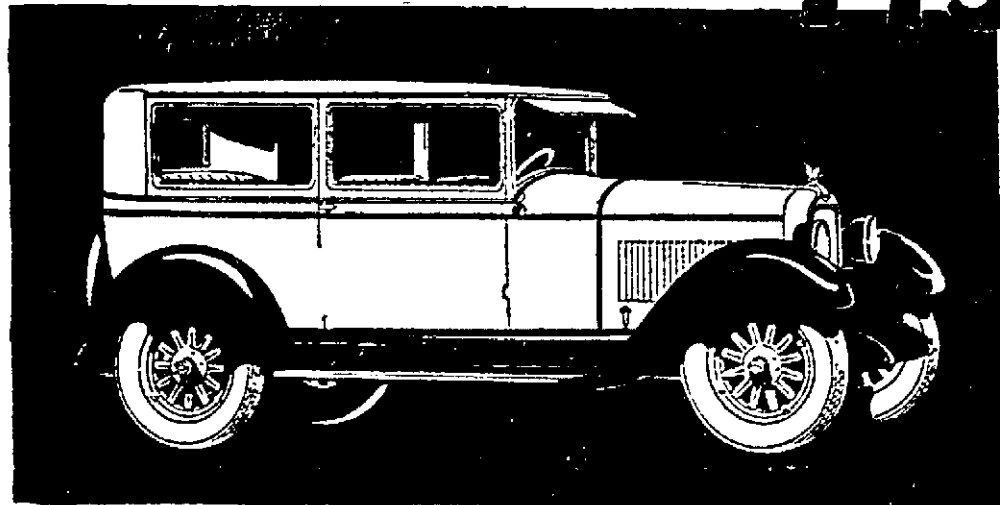

MUSIC is a kind of inarticulate, unfathomable speech, which leads us to the edge of the infinite, and impels us for a moment to gaze into it. —CARLYLE.

Such sweet compulsion doth in music be. —MILTON.

Language is not subtle enough, tender enough, to express all we feel, and when language fails, the highest and deepest longings are translated into music. —INGERSOLL
